ENFORCEMENT OFFICER PLACED UNDER ARREST

Leon Quick, of Milesburg, Caught With Married Woman.

WAS IN HIS PAJAMAS

Leon Quick, of Milesburg, a prohibition enforcement officer, who aided in making some sensational raids in Lock Haven recently which resulted in numerous arrests, ran afoul of the law on Saturday night when he and a married woman were found in a bedroom at the Brant House, in Bellefonte. Quick is also married. His wife, who resides at Milesburg, is said to be in a delicate condition. He has one or two children.

Chief of Police Dukeman and W. W. Bickett, proprietor of the hotel, found Quick and the woman together in the latter's room. Both, according to Chief Dukeman, were scantily attired. Quick was arrested and lodged in jail, charged with adultery. The woman, who is young and the mother of two children, was not arrested, but if necessary will be summoned as a witness.

On Sunday morning Quick telephoned from the jail to Judge Arthur C. Dale and explained that he was needed in Lock Haven Monday morning as a witness in the above-mentioned raid cases Judge Dale directed Sheriff Taylor to release Quick under $1,000 bail. On Sunday afternoon Sheriff Taylor took Quick before Prothonotary Roy Wilkinson, who accepted the young man's father, Edward Quick, of Milesburg, as bondsman.

Quick was not visibly perturbed when he appeared to give bail. As is customary with numerous enforcement officers when they themselves get into trouble, he said he was the victim of a "frame-up."

"There's nothing to this. I'll have a hearing in a few days and it will be fixed up," Quick is reported to have said while at the Prothonotary's office.

If Quick's remarks and his confident manner were intended to impress upon Sheriff Taylor and Prothonotary Wilkinson that he would soon be set free through influence, they evidently failed to be impressed. Prothonotary Wilkinson remarked that he didn't quite see how Quick could get his case before the Court before the February term unless he waived the finding of a Grand Jury and pleaded guilty. This Quick said he had no intention of doing. He added that he wouldn't admit anything other than that he had been in the woman's room.

Sheriff Taylor said that when Quick was locked up late Saturday night he admitted being guilty. Quick ran into a surprise when he was lodged in jail. Wm. Burns, one of the Julian group of bootleggers serving sentence imposed by the late Judge Quigley, made no attempt to conceal his joy when he learned that Quick was there.

"Wait until I am out and we will face a charge of forgery. He gave me a 'phony' check for two gallons of whiskey," exclaimed Burns.

In justice to Quick it should be explained that he had nothing to do with the raid that resulted in the arrest of the Burns crowd. Nevertheless, Burns was delighted because things had broken wrong for Quick.

Chief Dukeman's version of Quick's arrest left nothing to the imagination. Said he:

"Quick showed up Saturday night at the Brant House and registered for a room for the night. When the late bus from Lock Haven arrived a woman got off and went into the Brant House. I recognized her as a married woman who has two children. She was registered as a single woman. My suspicions were aroused and I notified Mr. Bickett, the proprietor. With another witness Mr. Bickett and I went to the woman's room door. We made a slight noise and in a minute or so Quick opened the door about one inch. I commanded him to open the door and at the same time helped him do so. He had on nothing but his pajamas. The woman, who was in bed, had on a gauze shirt. When I expressed indignation because a law enforcement officer was mixed up in such things, Quick said he was an enforcement officer only when he was on duty. It was explained to Quick that if he cared to plead guilty we would try and shield the woman because she was married and the mother of children, but that otherwise we would have to arrest both. The woman, upon being questioned, frankly admitted their guilt. We lodged Quick in jail and the woman returned to Lock Haven on Sunday."

Quick was arrested a short time ago for forgetting to pay a board bill in Bellefonte. He had to pay the bill and also costs.

On Monday the Poor Overseers of Milesburg had a warrant issued for Quick charging him with desertion and non-support of his wife and children. Sheriff Taylor went to Lock Haven and arrested Quick, returning to Bellefonte with him during the evening. A hearing on this charge was planned for Tuesday afternoon but on the representation that he was needed in Williamsport to appear as a witness against other persons under arrest, he was released on $500 bail, furnished by his father.

SPORTSMEN AROUSED

Opposition to Plan to Divert Hunting License Funds

Considerable opposition has developed among sportsmen to the proposal at Harrisburg to have the Legislature provide that in the future all proceeds from hunting licenses shall go into the general fund for State expenses. There is also some opposition to the proposal to change the date for the opening of the trout fishing season from April 15th to April 30th.

Under the present system proceeds from hunting licenses are devoted exclusively to maintenance of the game department at Harrisburg, and also to purchase game and game preserves. Definite promises to the sportsmen of the State that the proceeds from licenses would be used in this manner, and no other, had much to do with overcoming opposition to the license system. Once the hunting licenses had become firmly established, however, various attempts were made to have the license fees turned into the general fund. If this were to be done, the only funds available for game and game preserve purposes would be simply what the Legislature might appropriate every two years. Many sportsmen feel that it would be unwise to place the matter in the hands of the Legislature. They much prefer depending upon the license fees. Whereas the game commission at present receives all such fees, the amount appropriated biennially by the Legislature might be considerably less. The same is true in regard to fishing licenses.

Opposition that has develed to the plan to open the trout season fifteen days later than has been the practice for some years past, is based on the belief that such a plan would serve to encourage and increase illegal fishing. It is probably true, as many sportsmen contend, that most of the illegal fishing is done during the weeks immediately preceding and following the season for fishing. With a longer period of favorable weather preceding the opening of the season it is feared that persons fishing illegally would have greater opportunities for robbing the streams.

BIDS FOR AIR MAIL HANGAR

Local Dealers Expect Station to Be Located Near Zion.

A number of Bellefonte dealers have furnished bids in connection with plans for the erection of a large hangar for Bellefonte's proposed new air mail station. The contract has been awarded, it is said, to a New York firm. The proposed location for this hangar is said to be a large field near Zion along the back road between Zion and Pleasant Gap.

The bids submitted by Bellefonte dealers include furnishing of all kinds of supplies, as well as plumbing, trucking, etc.

Truck Demolished Lamp Post.

When the C. Y. Wagner truck was backing into the curb in front of the R. S. Brouse store on Monday morning with a load of flour, the rear end of the vehicle skidded on the ice and crashed into an iron lamp post at that point. Although the blow was apparently a light one, the post snapped like a match stick and crashed to the pavement. Fortunately no pedestrians were passing just at that particular time or the results might have been more serious. The truck was only slightly damaged. It is thought that because of the cold, not much of a blow was needed to break the post.

Slot Machine Cases.

Clyde Blackford and W. W. Bicketts, of Bellefonte, and Ray Noll, of Pleasant Gap, charged with having slot machines in their places of business, were fined $50 and costs and given 5 days in jail, each. The jail sentence was suspended on all three.

LEGISLATURE ASKED TO STOP POISONOUS LIQUOR

Proposed State Regulation of Denatured Alcohol Plants.

USED BY BOOTLEGGERS

The Pennsylvania Legislature, at Harrisburg, on Tuesday received a bill which aims to check the manufacture and distribution of poisonous liquor in this State. The measure is being sponsored by various temperance organizations.

Distillery plants manufacturing denatured alcohol are made subject to inspection by State officers, and permits to manufacture are placed in a bureau of the State Department of Agriculture, as a remedy to stop the flow of dangerous liquor. Alcohol from such plants, sold chiefly to manufacturers of toilet waters, lotions, etc., is said to have found its way in large quantities to persons who converted it into so-called whisky and gin. Many of the deaths resulting from alcoholic poisoning are attributed to the use of such liquor.

Philadelphia is designated as the largest manufacturing and distributing center for denatured alcohol in the country. Millions of gallons have been diverted illegally into unscrupulous hands and manufactured into whisky. Much of the bootleg liquors delivered to the interior counties in the State is said to be made with denatured alcohol as its foundation. While much of the alcohol so used is put through a purifying process, the work is crudely done and seldom is all of the poisonous matter removed. With a little coloring matter, some flavoring and fancy labels for the bottles, the concoction is sold as choice, imported liquor and at fancy prices.

Governor Pinchot, in appealing to the Legislature to adopt the bill, declared that in his judgment modification of the Volstead law to provide for light wines and beer would never be secured, if at all, until the law itself had been fully enforced. He stated that the alcohol regulation bill had no bearing whatever on light wines and beer.

PRISONER RECAPTURED

Escaped Rockview in 1917; Wanted For Murder in Colorado.

Charles Wilson, who escaped from the Rockview penitentiary on May 2, 1917, after serving 4 months of a 3 year sentence for larceny committed in Allegheny County, was arrested in Alexandria, La., last week, after his description had been broadcast by radio by the police of Denver, Colo., who wanted him on a charge of murder.

When Wilson was apprehended on the murder charge he immediately realized the gravity of his position and confessed to being an escaped convict from Pennsylvania. By this procedure, he hoped to be brought to Bellefonte and sentenced for the crime of escaping, which would mean that about 6 years would elapse before he could be tried for murder. He will be taken to Denver however, to answer to the more serious charge.

Supt. Herron's Fine Report.

The annual report of Supt. James W. Herron shows most gratifying results achieved at the Huntingdon Reformatory during the past year. There is possibly no other institution in Pennsylvania entrusted with a work more vitally important than that being done by Huntingdon Reformatory. It is probably true that many boys sent there never reform, but it is equally true that scores of others become good and useful citizens, due to training and instruction while under Supt. Herron's supervision. Mr. Herron is splendidly fitted for this responsible duty and his work has attracted widespread attention as well as favorable notice particularly among managers of similar institutions in other States. It is a matter of record that numerous Judges of Courts in Pennsylvania have publicly declared their belief that Supt. Herron is so admirably equipped for his work that he finds a way to rescue and reclaim the wayward boy, if the boy is not hopelessly beyond redemption.

Taxi Wrecked in Snow.

Last Friday evening the Studebaker taxi owned by Charles Miller and driven by his son Paul, crashed into the fence along the State highway, near the McCoy works, and was badly damaged. Just how the wreck occurred is not known, but it is thought the car skidded on the icy road. Two of the heavy fence posts were broken off and a third was split. The car sustained a bent frame and the steel disc wheels were badly damaged.

JUDGE DALE SAYS HE WILL BE A CANDIDATE

Not Decided as to Seeking More Than One Party Nomination.

N. B. SPANGLER IN FIELD

Judge Arthur C. Dale stated to "The Republican" on Wednesday that he has decided to be a candidate for election to a full term on the bench. He said that he had not decided whether he would seek nomination on more than one party ticket.

"Have you come to any decision as to being a candidate for a full term on the bench?" Judge Dale was asked by "The Republican."

"I have decided to be a candidate," replied Judge Dale, "but will not make a formal announcement for some time."

"Have you decided whether you will seek nomination on but one party ticket, or on more than one ticket?" he was asked.

"I haven't decided as to that," was Judge Dale's reply.

The belief prevails that Judge Dale will seek both Republican and Democratic nominations.

Attorney N. B. Spangler has definitely decided to seek the Democratic nomination for Judge.

Attorney Samuel D. Gettig, frequently mentioned as a prospective candidate for the Democratic nomination, will not become a candidate. He has repeatedly informed friends that he would not oppose Mr. Spangler for the nomination.

Democratic attorney J. Kennedy Johnston will enter for the Democratic nomination.

Democratic attorney W. Harrison Walker has informed friends that he will be a candidate for Judge and that he will seek both Democratic and Republican nominations.

AGED MAN INJURED

Jacob H. Cole, Former Resident, Struck by Car at Altoona.

Jacob H. Cole, until about a month ago a resident of Bellefonte, but who has been at the home of his daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. George Love, at Altoona, was struck by an automobile last Sunday evening while on his way to attend church services in that city. One leg was fractured near the hip. He is in the Mercy hospital, where X-rays are being taken to determine the extent of his injuries.

Mr. Cole had been standing on the curb to allow several cars to pass, and stepped into the street when a car driven by P. J. Durbin, of near Altoona, struck him and knocked him down. He was dragged for some distance. He was taken to his home nearby in the car which struck him, and thence to the hospital. Due to the overcrowded condition of the hospital he was removed to his home until Monday morning when he was again taken to the hospital.

Business Men Reorganized.

Reports that the Bellefonte Business Men's association was about to disband were exploded last Friday evening when a most successful meeting was held. Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: R. S. Brouse, president; Ralph Mallory, vice president; John B. Payne, secretary, and John M. Bullock, treasurer. Meetings will be held on the second Friday of every month with a dinner at the Brockerhoff house. The association will reorganize throughout and a more active part taken in the town affairs. Committees will be appointed for various duties, one of which will be to take up with the merchants in the near future, the matter of the Thursday afternoon closing during the summer months.

Shot By Bandits.

Word was received by Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Stover, of State College, formerly of Boalsburg, that their son, David R., of San Antonio, Tex., had been shot and seriously wounded by bandits in the streets of that city last Thursday evening. The young man is employed on the Southern Pacific railroad, and was driving his car through the city, when the bandits attacked him. He was also robbed of everything of value.

Injured Hand in Saw.

Gilbert Rimmey, of Centre Hall, was admitted to the Centre County Hospital on Monday with a badly mangled index finger on his left hand, incurred when he was operating a circular wood saw. On the following day surgeons found it necessary to remove the finger.

TWO STORES ROBBED

Five Local Amateur Bandits Get Quantity of Loot.

Chester Rice, Rodger Bell and Walter Lucas, all of Bellefonte, were arrested on Tuesday afternoon by Chief of Police Dukeman, charged with burglarizing the Potter-Hoy Hardware store last Sunday night and the grocery store on Allegheny St., owned by Gingery brothers, on Monday night.

The Rice boy was evidently the ringleader of the triumvirate of boy bandits and was committed to jail. He is 17 years of age. The other two are under 16 and will probably be sent to Glenn Mills. The loot of the amateur bandits consisted of a number of flashlights, revolvers, watches, cartridges, belts and other articles taken from the Potter-Hoy store, also a quantity of tobacco and candy taken from the Gingery store. The total value of the stolen goods was approximately $300, most of which was taken from the hardware store. The goods were found in burlap bags concealed in a little alcove in the hallway of Cadillac Apartments, where the trio had established headquarters.

Two other boys, Clarence Hoy and Joseph Gingery, were taken into custody later in the day by Chief Dukeman, charged with being implicated in the robbery at the Potter-Hoy store. The Hoy boy was committed to jail with Rice, while the three others were paroled in the custody of their parents, who agreed to produce them before the juvenile court today.

Three Fords in Crash.

An auto wreck which involved three Fords happened last Sunday evening at the intersection of Reynolds Avenue and Willowbank St., near the Centre County Hospital. Louis Haupt, of Bush Addition, was coming toward Bellefonte in his Ford touring car and a man by the name of Shay, of Howard, was going in the opposite direction. Just as the two cars were about to pass a Ford coupe came out of the intersecting street and passed between them, striking the Shay car a glancing blow which removed its right front fender. Mr. Haupt applied his brakes immediately and slid over into the ditch on the left side of the road, breaking his left front wheel and damaging the fenders and axle. None of the occupants of the three cars were injured.

Barn Burning Suspect Jailed.

A Finnish member of the traveling fraternity who gave his name as Christian Hanson, a native of Finland, and his occupation as "nothing," was lodged in the county jail on Sunday on a technical charge of vagrancy. Residents of Penn Hall telephoned Sheriff Taylor there was a suspicious character in that vicinity. The Sheriff arrested the man and lodged him in jail. Not much information could be gathered from the prisoner, who seemed to be rather weak-minded, but it was learned he has been in various parts of Centre County for several months. The Sheriff is of the opinion that he may be able to throw some light on the numerous and costly barn fires, many of which have been of "unknown origin."

Bullet Broke Window.

Mrs. Harry Menold narrowly escaped being killed on Tuesday afternoon by a .22 calibre bullet which crashed through the window of the dining room of the Menold apartment above the Beatty Motor company. The bullet missed her head by a very narrow margin, and flattened itself against the opposite wall of the room. Mrs. Menold was seated by the window at the time. Investigation by Chief of Police Dukeman revealed the fact that Robert Osman, employed by the Lauderbach—Griest company in the building across the alley, had been shooting rats with a .22 calibre rifle and one of the bullets had evidently gone wild.

Parent-Teachers Meeting.

The Parent-Teacher association of Blanchard held a meeting last Thursday evening in the school auditorium with forty-eight members present. Mrs. H. C. Kunes and Mrs. W. H. Vonada played two pleasing instrumental duets on the piano. Miss Minnie Fowler sang a solo. Members and school directors discussed the following subjects: 'Can a child be overloaded in school," and "Graded courses for all schools."

Blast 200,000 Tons of Stone.

A mammoth blast put off a little after 5 o'clock on Monday afternoon by the Chemical Lime Co. shook Bellefonte to its very foundations. From the standpoint of the company, the big "shot" was the most successful ever put off by them. Two carloads of dynamite and one car of powder were used, and the stone moved approximated 200,000 tons.

BALD EAGLE ROAD BIDS CALL FOR $1,252,423

Expect Contract to be Awarded Soon at Harrisburg.

BRIDGES NOT INCLUDED

The new State Highway from Snow Shoe Intersection will cost approximately $1,252,423, it became known when the bids on the 2 separate jobs were opened at Harrisburg last Friday. The low bidders on the 16-mile stretch from Snow Shoe Intersection to Port Matilda were the Miller Construction Co., of Punxsutawney, whose bid in round figures was $841,598. The low bid for the 8 mile stretch between Port Matilda and Bald Eagle was by J. M. Hutchinson, head of an Altoona construction company. His bid was $410,825.

The contracts will be awarded in about 2 weeks, it is understood, and provided the above named companies are capable of handling the work, the probabilities are that the jobs will be given them. The cost is somewhat higher than was expected, estimates running all the way from $600,000 to $1,000,000. Work will be started from opposite ends of the 25-mile stretch as soon as the weather permits, it being the avowed intention of the Highway Department to have the road completed during the coming season.

The low bidder for the 11,378 feet of brick highway extending from the foot of the hill south of Centre Hall borough to the watering trough on the north side of Nittany mountain, was the Reitz Brothers Construction Co., of Sunbury. Their bid was $121,658. The dangerous curve at the foot of the Centre Hall side of the mountain is to be eliminated and a number of other curves will also be taken out of the road. It is exceedingly doubtful whether or not this road will be finished this season, but when completed it will be one of the most frequently used roads in the county, as the view from the top of Nittany mountain cannot be equalled anywhere in Centre County.

The entire 25 miles stretch of road will be of concrete. Virtually all of the relocations to eliminate as many curves as possible, lie between Wingate and Port Matilda. As is usually the case where routes are re-located, a number of damage suits will result from the construction of the Bald Eagle valley road. Such damages fall upon the County. The State arranges and maintains necessary detours used while the highway construction is under way. In the past much of this had to be done at the expense of the County.

In re-locating the route for the new highway, a number of small frame buildings, principally sheds, are marked for removal. In a few instances the new route runs within a foot or two of barns and other farm buildings. In one case the new road is routed almost to the edge of a garage building. Examination of the road plans shows that the re-locating has been so done as to make it unnecessary to move any houses. At several points the route has been changed from the front to the rear of residences. Occupants of such houses will have to change their porches in order to front on the highway. At one point there will be a 10-foot fill. At numerous other points the fill will not be so great. The plans require all such fills to be made two months before the route is concreted.

The 1925 "La Belle."

The members of the Senior Class of the B. H. S. are working like Trojans to get out the 1925 "La Belle." The class has decided to make a radical departure from the annuals of other years and publish a larger and better "La Belle." The divisions of the book are to be increased and several new features will be introduced. The engraving and printing are being done by experts in the particular lines of school publications. To accomplish this task an early start was necessary. The work really began the first of December and since then the class has been quietly planning, arranging and writing their book.

Kiwanis Notes.

One of the most successful meetings ever held by the Bellefonte Kiwanis was the one on Tuesday noon at the Brockerhoff house. The meeting started off with a bang, everybody was in a good humor, from which nothing was detracted by the excellent luncheon served by manager Landsey. N. A. Staples of the local Highway office was the principal speaker and gave an exceedingly instructive and interesting talk on road building, especially in Centre County. The guests of the day were the County Commissioners.

CHOOSING AND COOKING A ROAST OF BEEF

Various Cuts of Beef.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

If one would serve roast beef of first-class quality it is necessary to know the characteristics of the various market grades of dressed beef and the typical retail cuts. A well-chosen piece of meat may, however, be ruined in the cooking; so it is equally necessary to know the method of cooking that will bring out the best qualities of the particular grade and cut selected, says the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture.

How to Choose Wisely.

In any one carcass the parts of the animal that have been exercised, as the neck or the shank, are made up of tougher muscle or coarser fiber and are drier. The less exercised parts, which are embedded in the bone structure, have more tender muscle fiber and are more likely to have a protecting layer of fat on the outside as well as marbled fat throughout the lean. Prime rib roasts and porterhouse and sirloin steaks show these characteristics.

Differences between tough and tender cuts are more accentuated in low-grade beef than in good or medium beef. To judge the grade of beef several points must be considered: First, the color and texture of the meat, and the extent to which it is marbled with fat are important. Bright red color and even grain are the most desirable. Second, the thickness of the meat covering the bone must be noted. The proportion of bone is higher, as a rule, in lower grade than in good or medium beef. Third, the amount and character of the fat and its general distribution and color may influence the grade. The proportion of fat is lower in low-grade beef than in the medium and good grades. Fourth, the amount of inside fat, such as kidney fat on the loin and layer fat on the inside of the ribs makes a difference. The best cut from a low-grade animal may be inferior in texture, flavor, and juiciness to a less choice cut from a high-grade beef.

Methods of Cooking.

The choice cuts of meat are the tender cuts. These should be cooked so as to develop and retain flavor. This is done by applying heat without any moisture in the pan. A very high temperature is used at first to sear the outside so that the juices will be retained. After the outside is seared or sealed up, the heat is lowered in order that the meat may cook through without burning. This method should be used for first-class roasts and steaks such as prime ribs, porterhouse and sirloin, and even chuck and rump from the high-grade animals.

In order to make tough, dry meat tender and palatable it is necessary to apply "moist heat," or to use water in cooking. Whenever water is added, however, some of the rich flavor of the meat is sacrificed. A part of it goes into the gravy, but the volatile part passes off in the air as merely an appetizing smell. In order to keep in as much of the juices as possible the meat is seared over first at a high temperature just as in the case of the tender cuts. This steam helps to make the tough fiber tender, but at the same time it softens the outer crust and allows part of the juices to leak out, carrying much of the flavor from the meat into the gravy. This method is known to the housewife as pot-roasting or oven-braising and is used to soften the fiber of a moderately tough, dry cut such as a roast from the round and brisket. If very tough meat, for example, neck or shank, is being cooked, it should be surrounded with water. So much of the flavor of the meat will then be in the gravy that this becomes an essential part of the meat dish.

RECIPE FOR JUGGED HARE IS OUTLINED

Thoroughly Tested by Department of Agriculture.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The United States Department of Agriculture has thoroughly tested the following recipe for jugged hare. Belgian hare, jack-rabbit, or wild rabbit may be used.

Clean the hare, remove the tough skin and membranes covering meat. Cut into pieces of about 2-inch lengths; cut half pound of bacon into dice of about ½ an inch square. In a plate mix three teaspoonfuls salt, one teaspoonful black pepper, four teaspoonfuls flour, half teaspoonful thyme, one bay leaf broken or crushed, three teaspoonfuls finely chopped onions, one teaspoonful grated nutmeg, and a pinch of ground cloves. Roll the diced bacon and one-fourth of the meat of the hare in this mixture. In a saucepan melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, or lard and butter mixed; when hot add the bacon and all the meat, brown nicely, add a little hot water or soup stock and simmer for half hour.

A Savory Dish of Jugged Hare.

Cabbage Surprise

2 cupfuls shredded cabbage.	2 cupfuls celery.
1 red pepper.	¾ cupful salad dressing.
⅓ cupful nut meats.

Blend finely cut pepper, nuts and celery with the cabbage. Moisten with cream salad dressing. Chill and serve on lettuce leaves.

DRIED FRUIT BALLS GOOD FOR CHILDREN

Recommended Because Less Sweet Than Candy.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Dried fruit balls are a simple confection, easily made from household materials. They are recommended for children by the United States Department of Agriculture, because they are less sweet than candy, and because many dried fruits contain iron and other minerals which the growing bodies of children need. Try putting a few of these fruit balls in the school lunch box occasionally in place of cookies or cakes. A fruit mixture of this sort also makes a good sandwich filling.

Dried Fruit Balls.

Almost any combination of dried fruits, with or without nuts, may be used. The following were found to go together particularly well: Apricots, pears, and nuts; figs, dates, and nuts; peaches, apples, and nuts; raisins without seeds, apricots, and figs.

Use equal quantities of any fruits selected. Wash and dry thoroughly and run them, and nuts if desired, through the meat grinder, using the smallest blade. Add a little salt, and moisten with enough sirup to make the mixture hold together and keep its shape when formed into balls. Roll the balls lightly in powdered sugar or dip them in coating chocolate.

Chocolate Coating.

Melt the commercial chocolate prepared for this purpose in a double boiler. Be careful not to let the water in the lower part boil, for this makes the chocolate coating streaked when it hardens. With two-tined fork lower the fruit balls into the melted chocolate. Lift them quickly and scrape off with a knife the surplus of chocolate that drips from them. Place on waxed paper to dry.

Egg Puff

4 eggs.	5 tablespoonfuls sifted flour.
1 cupful evaporated milk diluted with 1 cupful water.	1 teaspoonful salt.

Separate yolks and whites and beat each until light. Blend flour with enough milk to make a smooth, thin paste, then add remainder of milk, yolks of eggs and salt. Cut and fold into this the stiffly beaten whites; then pour mixture into buttered baking dish. Set in pan of water and bake in a moderate oven about 30 minutes or until firm. Serve at once with 1 cupful of medium white sauce to which has been added ½ cupful shredded blanched almonds. This is attractive for luncheon.

SPRING MILLINERY APPEARS; SMART SHOES OF PLIANT KID

IN THOSE sunny lands down on the Gulf of Mexico and along the Atlantic to beyond the West Indies, spring has already advanced more than half way toward summer. And there to welcome it and frolic with it, are troops of tourists from everywhere. They include many fashionables from the frigid North, gay butterflies decked out in lovely spring finery, and the vital question before the house is—what are they wearing?

They gather, to see and be seen, at the fashionable rendezvous in Palm Beach, Miami, Havana and many other places. If we were to run in upon them today at afternoon tea, say in the coconut grove at Palm Beach, it is certain the first thing to arrest our eyes would be the millinery that blossoms in that delectable place.

A great name is signed to the three hats at the top of the group. At the left a combination of straw and georgette is trimmed with a large wheel made of the georgette and tiny flowers and there is a broad collar of georgette about the crown. One can imagine the graceful and gracious hat in any of the season's delightful colors, as fuchsia, pervenche blue, gold, light green, alcazar red or soft yellow. The hat at the top is of hair-braid and owes its commanding position to the very high crown topped with a cluster of flowers. The upyrolling brim is covered with varicolored little blossoms set on separately. At the right, one of the new turbans with wide coronet is made of silk. Narrow braid is applied to the coronet in a floral pattern. Below this a lovely picture hat in straw is shown, with wide facing of silk. The large flat flowers at the front are of ribbon centered with beads. Think of it in tan, with facing and trimming of alcazar. No group would be complete without a sports model and at the left we have one of those that belongs to the semi-sports class. It is made of a novelty fabric and faced with plain silk and one may imagine it in many beautiful color combinations, as purple and cerise, orange and red, green and brown, navy and red, and so on.

Women were never more beautifully hatted than they are, or soon will be, this spring. Colors and shapes are flattering and there is great diversity in styles, but this group is made up of important and dominating types.

Women have gown so exacting in the matter of their footwear that the art of making shoes has become a very fine art indeed. Beauty of line, style and color are as important now in shoes as they are in hats and, in addition, shoes must fit "like a glove." To make them come up to standards that constantly advance in the diversity of types required by women of the day, designers and manufacturers spare neither themselves nor expense and the exquisite footwear they have launched for spring proves their efforts worth while.

There is nothing bizarre about the new styles—they are conservative, but it would be inaccurate to describe them as simple, although they have been so described. This is a compliment to their designers, whose fine and intricate work results in such clean-cut lines that the first impression is that of simplicity. The same thing is true in millinery and frocks. On account of its pliancy, kid has been chosen for the smart and graceful spring styles in shoes which so adroitly flatter the feet. Shoes, like hats, must "do something" for their wearers—more is required of them than merely to cover the feet. Since women insist on smartness and style, and take comfort for granted, manufacturers have turned to kid skin in order that the three factors of success may be combined.

A survey of the best shops reveals golden brown, beige, gray and, of course, black, to be the most popular colors. There are many shoes in which two colors are combined, as black and beige or black and brown. Occasionally one sees the introduction of a higher color, as strong blue with black, but it is sparingly used in dressy types. The merging of one color into another shows an exquisite craftsmanship. A study of the footwear shown here will give anyone an accurate idea of fashionable types in kid shoes for spring.

Sheer hose in tan, cocoa and "nude" shades, as well as hose to match gray, beige, tan or brown frocks, are fashionable. When the weather is too cold to wear these thin stockings safely women wear fine hose of angora wool under them.

SICK WOMEN SHOULD BE ENCOURAGED

Letters Like This Prove the Reliability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Turtle Lake, Wisconsin. — "I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness, backache and nervousness. I had these troubles for years and had taken other medicines for them, but I have found no medicine so good as the Vegetable Compound and I recommend it to my friends who have troubles similar to mine. I saw it advertised and thought I would try it and it has helped me in all my troubles. I have had six children and I have taken the Lydia E. Pinkham Vegetable Compound before each one was born, for weakness, vomiting, poor appetite and backache, and again after childbirth because of dizzy headaches. It is a good medicine for it always helps me. I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills for the last eight years for constipation." — Mrs. MABEL LA POINT, R. F. D. No. 1, Turtle Lake, Wisconsin.

In a recent canvass, 98 out of every 100 women say they were benefited by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Garfield Tea

Was Your Grandmother's Remedy

For every stomach and intestinal ill. This good old-fashioned herb home remedy for constipation, stomach ills and other derangements of the system so prevalent these days is in even greater favor as a family medicine than in your grandmother's day.

Would Make a Trade

Mother had entered the child's bedroom to say good-night.

"It is cold, mummy," said Joan, cuddling down.

"Yes, dear," said her mother, "but cover up. The angels will keep you warm."

Joan did as she was told. Then, after a moment's reflection, she looked up ot her mother again.

"I suppose I couldn't change my angels for a hot-water bottle?" she said, wistfully.

"During 60 years of Married Life"...

Three Generations Kept Healthy and Happy

"Beecham's Pills were always considered indispensable by my parents during sixty years of married life and I am never without them in my home, as they are used when required by myself (aged sixty-one), and wife and children. This covers a period of over eighty years.

My wife and sons also believe there is no remedy for constipation and biliousness equal to Beecham's Pills.

So many so-called "cures" for biliousness and kindred troubles leave after effects that are certainly injurious, but Beecham's Pills give prompt relief and leave one in a healthy and happy condition." N. J. M.

BURY DOG IN SAME GRAVE AS MASTER

Animal Drops Dead Near Vacant Chair of Owner.

Lexington, Ky.—Have animals a sense of personal bereavement? An instance in proof of this comes from Calhoun, Ky., where there were two burials in one grave, a master and his faithful dog, which died of grief, it is believed, when it discovered its master was dead.

The master was Louis Rowan, fifty-six years old. For some time Rowan's only companion was his dog, which followed him everywhere he went and slept on the floor, near his bed, at night. A few days ago Rowan died. His last request was that the undertaker permit the dog to accompany his remains to the cemetery. This request was granted and after the burial of Rowan, the undertaker took the dog back to the Rowan home. On entering the house the dog began to whine mournfully, and, after making three rounds of the house as if to take a last farewell of his accustomed haunts, the dog halted by his master's vacant chair beside the fireplace, suddenly reeled and fell dead. Members of the household made a tiny coffin and carried it to the cemetery, where the faithful dog was interred in the same grave with his master.

"Jim" Marshall, Former "Dead Shot," Is Dead

Denver, Colo.—"Three-fingered Jim" Marshall, who won his title by quick trigger work in the gold camps in the stage-coach days of the West, died in the General hospital here after having served the last ten years of his checkered career as a deputy sheriff.

In the booming days of the famous Cripple creek mining camps, whose only law was that which stern-faced men carried in leather holsters, conveniently swung on cartridge belts at their hips, "Three-fingered Jim" won and lost several fortunes in gold across the green-cushioned gambling tables. In those days, when men risked sacks of gold dust on the turn of a card, Marshall was at his best. Frequently, after a successful night at gambling tables, he would go into the streets and give away a small fortune to those less fortunate than himself. Later Marshall is said practically to have controlled the gambling enterprises in El Paso, Texas, and in Del Norte, New Juarez, N. M.

Still later, when the West was dropping some of its frontier habits, Marshall bought a string of race horses and invaded the tracks of the East. He was a familiar figure for several years in Louisville and in Eastern track circles.

Wills Her Big Home as Animal Hospital

Bridgeport, Conn.—A big, old-fashioned house, set in spacious grounds in the heart of this city's most exclusive residential district, is destined to become the Dodea Animal hospital, a memorial to the two pet dogs of its late owner, Mrs. Marietta W. Crowley, by whose will ultimate disposition of the property is thus provided.

The instrument also requires that portraits of the pets Dodea and Dodo are to occupy places of honor in the hospital.

As originally drawn, the will bequeathed the property immediately upon Mrs. Crowley's death to the Animal Rescue league, which will conduct the institution, but by a codicil added October 7, about a month before Mrs. Crowley died, her companion, Mrs. Elizabeth E. Fell, is to have the use of the house during her life. Then it will revert to the league.

The house is valued at about $20,000, and comprises a fifth of Mrs. Crowley's estate. With the exception of $25,000 for the mausoleum to be built on a $5,000 lot in Mountain Grove cemetery, $1,000 to the Cleveland Animal Rescue league and three minor charitable bequests, the balance of the estate is divided among relatives.

Screw Taken From Man's Lung After 28 Years

Pittsburgh, Pa.—A one-inch brass screw, swallowed 28 years ago, was removed from the right lung of Frank Crawford by Dr. J. Homer McCready at the Francis Memorial hospital here recently. A tube equipped with a small electric light bulb was inserted through the mouth, and after the screw had been located a long forceps was used in its removal. The patient's condition is reported as being "good."

Fortune in Pails

Montreal, Que.—An old woman, dressed in shabby black, carrying two battered tin pails, shuffled into the Royal Bank of Canada recently and inquired about a safety deposit box. On being told $5 to $50, she raised her pails to the counter and produced $15,000 worth of bonds and about $8,000 in cash.

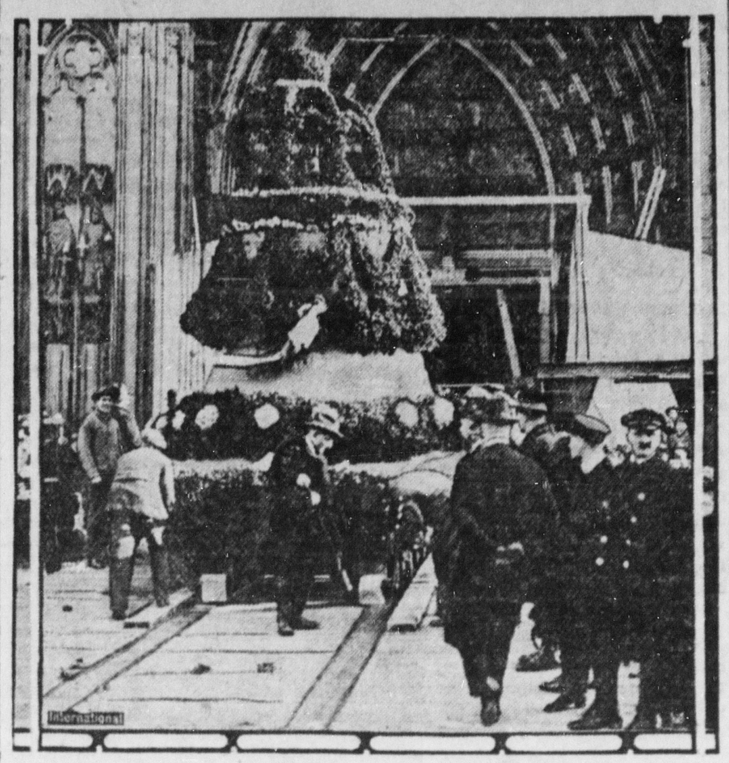
"Would it be possible to place these in a $5 box," she asked timidly.

The amazed official said he thought it would be a tight squeeze, whereupon the old lady sighed and walked away.

Lucky Break

Chehalis, Wash.—E. A. Graetinger pulled a turkey wishbone with a guest, winning the lucky break. No one knows the wish Graetinger made, but afterwards he received word to hasten to Skagway, Alaska, to help hold down a gold claim which Ted Carson, prospector, had located in the interior.

Cologne Gets a New Bass Bell



The new bass bell, elaborately decorated with garlands and flowers, is shown being hauled to the entrance of the Cologne cathedral, prior to its erection in the belfry. Its weight is 25 tons. The bell is stated to be the heaviest in Europe. It replaces a similar one presented by the ex-kaiser some years ago and which was taken from the cathedral for supply of German munitions during the World war.

American Finds Lost Greek Town

First Greek Settlement in Spain Located.

Bryn Mawr, Pa.—The site of the first Greek settlement in Spain, an important trading town built by Greek mariners and merchants before 600 B. C. and lost to history for the last 2,000 years, has been discovered by Prof. Rhys Carpenter, head of the department of archeology at Bryn Mawr college.

The find is regarded by archeologists as one of the most important made in recent years. It establishes beyond a doubt the location of Hemeroskopeion, long a puzzle to historians and archeologists. It fixes a lonely wind-swept rock in the Mediterranean as the spot that was the center of Greek commerce in Spain in a day when Iberia supplied the world with silver, tin, iron and lead, and Greeks and Phoenicians were bitter rivals for supremacy in this trade on the sea and in the world's markets.

Not only was this town—the name means "Lookout Post" or "Watchtower"—the center of trade, but with its sister colonies, Emporian to the north and Mainake to the southwest, it made its influence so strongly felt that for hundreds of years after the Greeks had departed the people of this part of eastern Spain showed evidences of Greek thought and culture.

Native Iberian art in the form of statues and fragments of columns and other ornamental bits of architecture, all showing strong Greek influence, are now being dug up along the coast in the vicinity of these three settlements, and even as far back as 50 miles in the interior, showing how well-established was the Greek position.

In an interview at Bryn Mawr college Doctor Carpenter told of the finding of the lost town.

Doctor Carpenter's Story

He had never been satisfied with the general theory that the modern town of Denia, near the Cabo de la Nao—the Cape of the Ship—was the site of Hemeroskopeion. That it was the site of the Roman town of Dianium was obvious. Denia—Dianium. The old town has not even changed its name in the passing centuries, and then every time a cellar for a new house was dug there was nearly always turned up some concrete evidence of the Roman occupation. But never did the diggers find anything Greek.

It was in the winter of 1923-24, a year ago, that Doctor Carpenter determined to locate the true site of Hemeroskopeion. He knew that while Denia was not the place, the town of the Watchtower had probably been somewhere in the vicinity. He began to search the coast.

At last he came one day to Punta de Ifach, 20 miles south of the Cape of the Ship and 30 miles south of Denia. He drove through the village and out to the seacoast and knew that his search was ended. There it stood—Hemeroskopeion—the Lookout Post—the Watchtower—a mammoth rock, 1,076 feet in height, that dominated the low, flat beach like some castle built by giants might have done. Doctor Carpenter says he has never seen anything like it in shape and position except Gibraltar. It was certainly the Watchtower of those ancient Greeks, because there is nothing at all like it anywhere along that eastern coast.

An Ancient Naval Base.

Upon climbing the top of the rock Doctor Carpenter was able to see the Balearic islands, 70 miles away. He discovered a snug inner harbor between the rock, which juts into the Mediterranean, and the coast. No wonder the Greeks chose this place and called it by that name. Here was a good naval base in case of war, with a lookout post which enabled one to see 70 miles seaward. Its strategic position was put to good use in the First century, B. C., when Sertorius, in his great rebellion against Rome, used it as his naval base.

It will be a few years before the work of uncovering the ancient town can be started. The Barcelona museum has brought to light the ruins of Emporion, the third and last Greek settlement in Spain, and, according to Doctor Carpenter, will probably begin work on the site of Hemeroskopeion as soon as funds are available.

Hemeroskopeion flourished particularly in the Sixth century B. C. At that time Greeks and Phoenicians were establishing trading posts everywhere and were engaged in a keen race to control trade in the Mediterranean.

Women Rule in Tibet; Take 6 Husbands Apiece

New York.—In far Tibet men say of their women: "They are just like the foreign women. They boss the homes. They get their own way." The order that prevails among other primitive peoples is reversed, and one woman takes unto herself six or more husbands, often brothers, thereby keeping the whole family under her thumbs.

Tibetan women wield the keys of the household, figuratively speaking, and have complete sway in the ordering of their husbands' lives. A woman considers herself badly off if she has only two husbands.

In addition to their housework the women run things on the outside. They cut the grain after the fashion of Ruth with a small sickle, and they thresh it on the flat mud roofs as in the days of Abraham. They do little in the way of cooking, except to boil their tea. They live largely on barley, butter and raw meat. They butter themselves instead of bathing.

COUGARS IMPERIL LIVE STOCK AND GAME IN WASHINGTON

Hunters in Northwest Search for Animals.

Olympia, Wash.—A scourge of cougars, the big cats of the Northwest forests, imperils the live stock of isolated settlers, deer, elk and game birds. Reports reaching here from almost every section of Washington and Oregon indicate the reign of this carnivorous night prowler is widespread. While hunters, Indians and trappers declare cougars will not attack human beings, at least one victim is known, James Fehlhaber, a thirteen-year-old boy, who was killed in an encounter with one of the cats near Oleava. This particular cougar is known to have destroyed $4,000 worth of calves and sheep near Okanogan. Peter C. Peterson, renowned predatory animal hunter, is out in the mountains after the animal.

Sheriff C. Studebaker of Cowlitz county headed a party of hunters in a fruitless search near Braynion mountain, near Kelso, for a large cougar that circled James Brownell seven times while the settler was getting out fence posts. The tracks were telltale in the new snow.

Game commissioners and two expert cougar hunters with five hounds spent a week near Mukilteo seeking a giant cougar that killed a valued Airedale and two hounds and frightened residents of the districts. The animal eluded the men.

Hunters and hounds trailed a large cougar which robbed henneries near Longview. The tracks led up into mountains of loose rock and were lost.

A female cougar measuring seven feet two inches, with forepaws which were five inches across, was killed near Hood River, Ore., after a long period of colt and calf killing.

E. A. Hull, of Yelm, recently bagged a cougar measuring nine feet from tip to tip. Just before being treed the cat had killed a four-point deer.

Okanogan, Sequim, Queets, Concrete, Rockport, Wallula and Falls City report damage from cougars.

LOCKKEEPER OPENED DIKES TO SAVE THE BELGIAN ARMY

Hero Who Stopped Germans by Flood Is Dead.

Bruges, Belgium.—Henri Geeraert, lockkeeper of the sluices of Nieuport and hero of the first battle of the Yser, died in a hospital here after a long illness. On Christmas day, when he seemed near the point of death, he received an award of the Cross of the Order of Leopold, in recognition of his action in opening the dikes in November, 1914, flooding the Yser battlefield and stopping the German advance. The honor acted as a tonic and Geeraert revivied for a time.

It was after the surrender of Antwerp, when the German troops were advancing victoriously across Belgium, that Geeraert's knowledge of the workings of the Belgian sluice system came into play, saving not only the Belgian army from complete destruction but bringing about the definite blocking of the road to Calais to the Germans.

When the sluices were opened the water began flowing into the flat country along the eastern side of the railroad bank from Nieuport to Dixmude. At first its progress was not noticeable, the water being absorbed by the ground. Within 48 hours, however, the ground became juicy and a few hours later the whole country was transformed into a muddy plain with the German men and horses struggling desperately to free themselves from the entagling slime.

Gradually the water began to rise above the ground, one foot, two feet, and at last three feet. A faithful ally of the Belgians, the flood paralyzed the invader. When the Germans had discovered what was going on it was too late. Many guns had to be abandoned and the German troops, caught by the rising waters, were either drowned in their trenches or, unable to return to solid ground, had to surrender.

By early November an artificial lake more than two miles wide acted as an effective barrier to the enemy from Nieuport to the north of Dixmude. The first battle of the Yser was over and the Germans had met with a serious check.

Geeraert, who was fifty-one years old at the time, together with Cogge, his companion sluicekeeper, supervised the operation of the sluices to admit the water and manipulated them in a way to avoid extending the inundation west of the railway bank, where the penetration of the water would have hampered the Belgian defenders, whose line of defense had twice been broken and re-established at great cost before the expedient of opening the sluices, at Geeraert's suggestion, was adopted and successfully carried through.

Japs Settle in Tennessee

Memphis, Tenn.—The movement to place thousands of Japanese farmers in the rich portions of Arkansas between Marion and Joyner, Ark., began to take form several days ago when two families of Japanese from California settled upon this vast acreage and, according to Dean Adams, Memphis realtor, Japanese have incorporated and proposed to buy several thousand acres of land in that section and colonize it with 50,000 Japanese, the Commercial-Appeal says.

The proposed colony will engage solely in farming.

British Science Studies Habits of the Herring

London.—The humble herring, staple breakfast diet in thousands of British homes, has become the subject of much research, and two British scientists recently went to Norway to acquire a more detailed knowledge of his temperament and habits.

Fisheries authorities point out that the huge catches of herring in the North sea of recent years have threatened the supply and the migrations and seasonal distribution of fish of different ages are being studied in an effort to prevent the decimation of the runs, such as happened in the case of salmon in the Pacific Northwest and British Columbia waters.

Thousands of herring have been captured and marked for further identification, then released, and fishermen advised to notify the fisheries development commission if they are caught in the future.

Another means of determining the migration routes of fish of different ages is by counting the annual growth of rings which appear on the scales.

How She Found Out

Husband—I wonder what sort of people our new neighbors are? I saw they moved in this morning.

Wife—Well, they are not well provided with things, anyway. They haven't a lawn-mower, or a knife machine, or a hose for cleaning the windows, or a step-ladder, or—

Husband—How on earth did you find that out?

Wife—Oh, I asked them to lend me each of those things!

OVER THE COUNTY

The 30 h. annual meeting of Group 6, Pennsylvania Bank r' Associ tion, will be held at the Penn Alto Hotel at Altoona on Feb 12 Fifteen Centre county banks are members of this association, including the two Bellefonte banks.

Negotiations were completed recently whereby the property of the McMullin Brothers silk mill, at Millheim, was transfesred to F. Q Hartman, of that town, who is the owner of the Centre county silk mill He also purchased the mill dam and tail race connected with the property

While Harold Alexander, of Julian, was unloading coal at a P. R. R. siding at that place last week, the large team of horses owned by him became frightened by a passing train, took flight, and were not checked until they ran into a tree in a nearby orchard. The sled and harness were wrecked.

Representatives of road building concerns were in Centre Hall recently, consulting with property owners whose land lies along the State highway over Nittany Mountain. They discussed arrangements regarding possible damage that might result from the construction of the new road over the mountain. Bids have been asked for this road and it is presumed that it will be built during the coming season.

On Wednesday morning of last week, between 8 and 9 o'clock, with the thermometer registering between 10 and 20 degrees below zero, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Poorman, of Romola, was totally destroyed by fire. The house was of frame structure, and so quickly did the flames spread that the parents and children succeeded in escaping with only the clothing which they wore.

John B. Dunkle, a painter, aged 60 years, of Spring Mills, recently took a 24 hour sleep, passing into the land of dreams one evening at 5 o'clock and waking at 5 the following day. The man had been losing a lot of sleep waiting on his sick wife and it is thought that his protracted snooze was due to exhaustion. All efforts of neighbors to arouse him were unavailing.

On Sunday night of last week a number of volunteer firemen of Woodward probably prevented a large fire when they turned out in response to an alarm at the William Boob home, just west of town. The fire started in a summer kitchen, which was totally destroyed, also an adjoining wood house. The barn roof and some other buildings caught fire several times but the flames were prevented from spreading by a bucket brigade, which rendered valuable service.

On Sunday morning of last week two dogs chased a doe in Decker valley running it until it died from exhaustion. Paul Lingle, a son of a Decker valley farmer, happened to see part of the chase. He shot and killed both dogs, which wore no collars and could not be identified. During the same week, dogs chased a young doe out of the Seven mountains near Potters Mill. The exhausted animal took refuge in a farmer's barn and was later liberated when it became apparent that it was not injured.

Madera Returns to State.

Still hobbling about on crutches from a recent operation, C. R. "Rags" Madera returned to Penn State last week for the opening of the second semester. Madera has had one tough break after another. A star on the football versity in 1920, he snapped a bone in his thigh during the memorable State—Harvard game. After a year spent in hospitals undergoing operations he returned to State and won the inter-collegiate heavyweight boxing championship in 1924. He also won a berth on the American Olympic boxing team. After his return from the Olympic last summer, his old injury began to trouble him and forced his return to the hospital. It is doubtful if he will ever be able to take part in athletics again.

FARM CALENDAR

Timely Reminders from The Pennsylvania State College.

START BULBS NOW—Bulbs potted last fall for Easter blooming must be started in o active growth now. It is better to have these develop normally than to force them too fast later on, landscape specialists of the Pennsylvania State College say.

GATHER THE EGGS—Hatching eggs should be collected often during cold weather Make it a practice to gather these eggs about every hour during the coldest days. They should be stored in a fairly dry room which is free from foreign odors and which is kept at a temperature between 55 and 65 degrees Fahrenheit. Turn the eggs daily and never hold them longer than 10 days before placing them in an incubator.

EWES NEED FEED—A thin undernourished ewe cannot be expected to raise big lambs. If no grain has been fed yet, now is a good time to begin. Feed one-half pound of the following grain mixture to each ewe each day: 300 pounds of oats, 200 pounds of corn and 100 pounds of bran. If good clean corn silage is available this can be fed as high as three pounds daily per ewe.

PICK THE WET SPOTS—Now is the time of the year to mark the location of Winter springs and "spouty" places Later a properly located tile drain can be installed to remove the surplus water.

FEEDING THE GARDEN PLANTS—It is advisable to have some commercial fertilizer on hand in addition to the manure placed on the garden. Acid phosphate broadcast after plowing or spading at the rate of five pounds per square rod is a good practice where manure has been applied. Where no manure is available a high grade complete fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphorus and potash should be broadcast at the rate of seven to ten pounds per square rod after plowing. Nitrate of soda is also valuable to apply as a top dressing to the growing plant, a handful to 15 feet of row.

Beautiy Your Farm.

In connection with the "Beautify Your Farm" movement which is gaining such widespread popularity among farmers all over the State, John R. Bracken, specialist in farm landscape gardening, from the extension department of the Penna. State College, will be in Bellefonte (today) Thursday and Friday at the office of the Centre County Farm Bureau Association. His services will be given free to any farmer who desires such. A number have already signified their intention of availing themselves of this unusual opportunity. Mr. Bracken will give plans and estimates of the probable cost of beautifying the home grounds of the farm houses, which includes the laying out of driveways, planting of shrubbery, trees, etc.

Annual Banquet.

The annual banquet for the Bellefonte Academy athletic heroes last Thursday evening in the dining hall of the institution, was a grand success in every particular. The hall was tastefully decorated in blue and gold, the school colors which color scheme was carried out even to the extent of a blue and gold candle on each of the long tables. Headmaster James R. Hughes was the toast-master, and the responses to his requests for toasts were, especially witty as well as interesting

Lewistown Plans Big Celebration.

Lewistown's Old Home Week, June 28 to July 4, Pennsylvania's biggest event in 1925, is definitely under way with over 60 civic, social, religious, fraternal and military organizations of the city and Mifflin county backing the celebration which will be a county wide affair, bringing together thousands of former residents of Mifflin county as well as other visitors, everyone of whom will find a royal welcome and an elaborate program of entertainment.

Snow Shoe Air Mail Field.

Negotiations are under way between officials of the air mail service and H. P. Kelly, of Snow Shoe, to purchase from the latter a large field at that place to be used as an emergency landing field for mail ships. It is understood that if the plans of the air service are carried out, the Snow Shoe field will be lighted and equipped for all manner of emergencies.

Never Taught to Speak, Children Grew Up Dumb

Akbar, one of the first of the great moguls who ruled India, has been named the Asiatic Charlemagne. He was a statesman and an educator, and built a palace for the reception of men who loved learning and sought after wisdom. The great mogul's passion for knowledge is said to have been shown by a whimsical experiment he once made to determine if it was true, as he had heard, that Hebrew was the natural language of all who had never been taught any other tongue.

To test this assertion Akbar caused a dozen nursing children to be shut up in a castle, six leagues from Agra, his capital city. Each child was reared by a dumb nurse; the porter also was a mute and was forbidden, upon pain of death, to open the gates of the castle. When the children were twelve years old Akbar ordered them to be brought before him.

Men learned in Sanskrit, in Arabic, in Persian and in Hebrew were assembled at the royal palace to tell what languages the children spoke. Akbar, seated on his throne and surrounded by these linguists, ordered the children to be brought in. Each child was addressed and, to the surprise of the assembly, every one answered by a sign. Not a child could speak a word. They had all learned from their nurses to express themselves by gestures.

Ancient Plate Prized by Historical Society

The Verendrye plate, a square bit of leaden plate, is said to be the most celebrated bit of matter in South Dakota's history. It reposes in the capitol building at Pierre, in possession of the South Dakota Historical society. It was found buried in the earth near Pierre in 1917.

This remarkable plate was prepared either in France or in Montreal at the request of the older Verendrye, and in anticipation of the expedition of 1741, which had been planned by his eldest son Pierre, into the Mandan country in the far wilderness of America. It is thought that the explorers planted the plate on the banks of the Missouri, opposite what is now Pierre, on the hill where it was found. It bears, translated from French, this inscription:

"In the twenty-sixth year of the reign of Louis XV, the most illustrious Lord, the Lord Marquis of Beauharnois being Viceroy, 1751, Pierre Gaultier de Laverendrye placed this."

Too Unlucky

A visitor in Kentucky came across that rare specimen, an unmarried colored man.

The negro was a quiet, elderly person, not shiftless but quite industrious, so the Northern man felt curious and determined to find out why he had remained single.

"Uncle Jim, how does it happen that you are so opposed to matrimony?"

The old fellow looked up with a grave face, but there was a twinkle in his eye as he replied: "Me, suh? I ain't erposed to matrimony."

"Well, why is it you have never married?" his inquisitor continued. "Haven't you seen anyone you liked?"

"Lawdy! yessah—but you see it's thisaway; I couldn't resk my judgment."

Siam Country of One Town

One of the oldest features of that odd country, Siam, is that it is a country of one town, observes a writer in the Detroit News.

Bangkok is the seat of a very centralized form of government and administration. It contains the only permanent residence of the king and all officials and nobles, except a very few provincial officers, have their work and dwellings in the capital. It is there too, that they take all their pleasures. To the European, Bangkok is all Siam. Here he meets all the foreigners in the country, all officials of foreign governments and the mercantile community.

Aside from this unique importance which Bangkok holds in Siam, it is one of the most interesting of the great cities of the East.

Light Mystery Solved

One of the most spectacular forms of lightning (if it can be so called), occurs in the Andes, and has occasionally been reported from other mountainous regions. At times the mountains seem to act as gigantic lightning rods, giving rise to more or less continuous diffused discharges between themselves and the clouds, says Nature Magazine. A few years ago American meteorologists thought they had found an example of this striking phenomenon in North Carolina, but the once mysterious "Brown mountain lights" have been proved to be merely the beams of distant locomotive and automobile headlights or due to other human agencies.

Roman Theater Unearthed

The remains of a Roman theater, 65 feet in diameter, dating from the Second century of the Christian era, have been discovered in a garden at Ferentino, about fifty miles south of Rome. A fine background is provided by the range of the Monti Lepini and the valley of the Sacco, along which the railway runs from Rome to Naples. The ancient Ferentinum was a city of the Hernisi, taken by the Romans (as Livy tells us) and destroyed in the second Punic war. It afterward became a Roman colony and was selected by Horace as a typical quiet country town where the nerve-fagged Roman could recuperate.—Scientific American.

Probably First Lighthouse

The word "pharos" means lighthouse, and the Pharos of Egypt was a gigantic beacon which was established at Alexandria, Egypt, to light the mariners to safety. It was built by Ptolemy in 282 B. C., and it was stated that it was 400 feet high and the light was visible for 60 miles at sea

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

Mrs. Amanda Dunkle Dead.

Mrs. Amanda Dunkle wife of John B. Dunkle, of Spring Mills, died last Thursday, aged 65 years, 11 months and 7 days. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Carrie Rossman, of Spring Mills, and 2 sisters, Miss Sarah Shugert and Mrs. Ella Shambaugh, both of Carlisle. Funeral services were held from the late home on Monday morning. Interment at Spring Mills.

Freakish Trees

An explorer in the forests of northern India has found a tree that gives an electric shock to any one who touches it. The intensity of the shock varies with the time of day, the current being at its strongest at 2 p. m.

Few people realize the extraordinary properties with which nature has endowed some trees. In Nubia, for example, there is a tree, the sofar, that plays tunes, a startling effect due to the boring of numerous insects at the base of the young shoots. The wind, playing through the tiny apertures, produces a series of flute-like notes.

A Canadian prairie tree, known as the compass tree, is an infallible guide to travelers, the edges of its leaves always pointing north and south.

In Arizona there is a tree which, on being touched, actually ruffles its leaves and tries to scare off the intruder by emitting a sickening odor.

—Tell the boys at the office the wife and I are mighty grateful just the same.

Luckily, I took out an ÆTNA DISABILITY POLICY shortly before I fell downstairs and broke my arm. That brings me $50 a week once a month, and will as long as I'm totally out of the running, besides paying the surgeon. After that, $25 a week until I'm fit to tackle the job again.

You know how we all chipped in on a little collection for Del Morgan when he cut himself on that ink scratcher, got blood poison, and was laid up so long? While Del appreciated it, he was pretty embarrassed. That taught me my lesson. I telephoned the ÆTNA and told 'em I wanted to Pine Grove Mills.

The sunny days have reduced the snowdrifts and travel is better.

Mrs. J. E. McWilliams and Mrs. Bessie Corl are victims of the grip, and are quite ill.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Kocher, of Graysville, spent Saturday afternoon in a shopping tour to our town.

Milton Wieland is nursing a broken arm from a back kick of his Henry.

Road Supervisor C. H. Meyer is attending a Supervisors convention at Harrisburg as a delegate this week.

Milt Weiland is quitting farming and will be succeeded by Carl Lykens as tenant farmer on the Sheriff Walker farm at Fairbrook.

Elmer Barr was discharged from the Centre County hospital last Wednesday and is making crutches his means of locomotion, minus one leg. He is getting along nicely, and at present is at the home of his brother on Main Street.

Mrs. George Harpster, who was near the brink last week, suffering from an attack of pneumonia, is now convalescing.

Mrs. J. G. Miller went last week to Philadelphia, where she is a medical patient in the Jefferson hospital.

Farmer J. C. McCool, while feeling his way in a dark stable had a pair of horses heels planted in his bread basket last Friday, and is holding down his arm chair this week from the effects.

Mrs. Bert Eaves, who was thrown from a sled while returning from the Isaac Gates funeral last week and dragged some distance by her clothing, being severely injured, is now improving. 'Tis a wonder she escaped with her life.

Mother O'Bryan, who has been ill most of the winter, is now able to go about in her room.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hess Tate motored over from Lewistown and spent the latter end of the week among friends here and at State College.

Mrs. Ella Frank, who has spent most of the winter near Zion, was at her parental home near town on Sunday.

J. C. Kirchner, of Julian, last week purchased a team of draft horses, harness and wagon, from A. C. Kepler. Mr. Kirchner knows a good team when he sees it.

Word has been received from Comrade D. W. Miller, who is at the Jefferson hospital in Philadelphia, that he underwent an operation and is getting along as well as could be expected, and is in great spirits.

George Geardon, agent for the Atlantic Tea Co., is making his rounds taking orders for his large spring trade.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Bierly, of State College, took a spin over the pike on Sunday afternoon and called on old friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Boal are mourning the death of their 5 weeks old baby, Fay, who died on Saturday at 6:30 P. M., of that much dreaded disease, pneumonia. Burial was made on Monday at 2 P. M., in the Houserville cemetery.

Master Foster, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E Musser, has been quite ill but is now improving.

George Bell, of Spruce Creek, spent Saturday with his mother at State College and found her improving but slowly. Mrs. Bell spent the day with her mother, Mrs. J. W. Sunday, on East Main street, and found her somewhat improved.

George Goss came over from his Stone valley home on Monday and spent the day among old friends in town.

Paul Sunday, Will Dennison and Allison Weiland, prosperous farmers of Tadpole, shoveled out Saturday morning through the drifts, after being shut in for two weeks.

Professor Fitts, agricultural extension worker, was the principal speaker at the farmers meeting and gave them "Fitts'g that lasted an hour or more. He said in part that dairying is just in its infancy in Centre County. He urged farmers to grow and use more dairy feed, such as clover and alfalfa, with a well balanced ration of oats, corn, bran and cotton seed meal. This would increase the milk yield far beyond the cost of production. He cited many instances where scientific feeding has almost doubled the milk production. The next meeting will be on "poultry" in the I. O. O. F. hall on Friday evening at 7:30. Come and bring your friends. It's free.

Beech Creek Schools Opened.

At a joint meeting of the school directors and the board of health of Beech Creek last Friday evening, it was decided to re-open the schools of that place on Monday, after they had been closed for 2 weeks because of the scarlet fever epidemic which continues to rage in that section. A total of 23 cases have been reported to date and there seems to be no let-up in the situation as yet. The school buildings have been thoroughly fumigated, however, and 2 physicians were on hand on Monday morning submitting each pupil to a rigid examination before they were permitted to enter school. Sunday schools and other places of public meeting have remained closed.

Port Matilda

The Pius Frantz home is quarantined, one of the daughters having scarlet fever.

Miss Eleanor Shultz is on the sick list this week.

Mrs. Mary Frantz, of Tyrone, spent Saturday with her sister, Mrs. Henry Spotts.

R. C. Thompson spent Sunday in Tyrone with his son Harold.

The deep snow has about all disappeared in this section since the groundhog failed to see his shadow. Unusually warm weather was aided by a warm rain on Monday evening in driving away the evidences of winter.

J. S. Williams recently moved his sawmill from Half Moon valley, where he had been lumbering for several months, to a tract which he purchased from the Moores on Allegheny ridge.

W. E Williams spent Tuesday in Tyrone attending to some business affairs.

Mrs Anna Barry and Mrs. A. J. Johnson spent Wednesday in Tyryne on a shopping trip

Dr. Piper, of Tyrone, was seen on our streets quite early on Wednesday morning, and later in the day we heard he had brought a 9-pound boy to Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel Leitzell.

The Lehigh Express stops at Port Matilda and a number of persons have formed the habit of going to Tyrone for an afternoon's shopping. No less than 17 purchased tickets last Saturday.

Russel Hartz, of Altoona, spent the weekend at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hartz.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Daughenbaugh spent the weekend with the latter's mother in Tyrone.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Shanor, accompanied by their two children, journed to Altoona on Sunday and spent the day visiting relatives.

Mise Viola Williams, teacher of the intermediate school, spent Sunday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Charles Richards, at Altoona.

Samuel Harshberger, teacher of the grammar school, has been on the sick list since last Thursday.

Mrs. Warren Steel is still on the sick list and is not improving very rapidly.

Three Tyrone officials of the P. R. R. were in town last Friday looking for a place to locate a new siding. Due to the unusually large amount of stone and other supplies, which will necessarily be unloaded for the new highway during the coming summer, the present siding facilities at Port Matilda and other stations in Bald Eagle valley will be inadequate to care for it.

Boalsburg.

Mrs. John G. Ishler was the guest of Miss Floss Abyss at Tyrone over the weekend.

Mrs. T. L. Smith and daughter of Centre Hall, spent part of last week with the former's sister, Mrs. F. M. Charles.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Reish and family spent Sunday at Centre Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Odenkirk and family and J. H. Weber, all of Centre Hall, attended the funeral of Mrs. W. A. Murray on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Goheen and Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Goheen were visitors at the John Goheen home at Rock Springs on Sunday.

Old Diary Published.

A diary that is 103 years old, by an unknown author who tells of a trip taken overland from Horsham, Montgomery county, to the northern part of Ohio, has just been published. The traveler journeyed through Berks and Schaylkill counties to Sunbury, thence through historic Penns Valley and over to Bellefonte. Penns Valley he described as "rough going" and the road over the mountain to Bellefonte was "as rough as ever man traveled." Bellefonte had four stores and no less than nine taverns. The original manuscript is the property of the Pennsylvania State College.

Wagner—Eddings.

Earl Wagner, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Wagner, of Unionville, and Miss Doris Eddings, daughter of Mrs. J. A. Barley, of Altoona, were married at 3 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon of last week in the parsonage of the First Methodist parsonage at Altoona. After the ceremony a dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents for the immediate families. The young couple will reside in Altoona.

Morrison—Kellerman.

Alexander O. Morrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Morrison, of Bellefonte, and Miss Maud E. Kellerman, of Milesburg, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents at 9:30 o'clock on Monday evening by Rev. J. Fred Andreas, of Milesburg.

William H. Johnson Dead.

William H. Johnson, well known and highly respected citizen of Spruce Creek valley, passed away at his home near Graysville last Monday evening about 8 o'clock, following a long illness which was the result of injuries to one of his feet. He was a son of Bruce and Susan Montgomery Johnson, early settlers of Spruce Creek valley, where he was born March 11, 1847, and he died in the same room in which he first saw the light of day. He spent some years in the South where he was united in marriage to Miss Mary Foster. He returned home in 1876 and took up farming on the old homestead. He was elected on the Republican ticket in 1901 and served as County Commissioner. He was a member of the Presbyterian church from boyhood and was a good neighbor and kind father. He is survived by his widow and the following children: Mrs. Sarah Griffin, at home; Mrs. Bassel, Mrs. Grassmier and Mrs. Harris, of Altoona; Mrs. Shultz, Mrs Stover and Mrs. Houck, of Spruce Creek, and Bruce, at home. He is also survived by 26 grandchildren and 6 great grand-children. Funeral services were held from the late home on Saturday morning, Rev. Harry D. Fleming officiating Interment in the Graysville cemetery.

Mrs. James R. Garis Dead.

Mrs. James Garis, of Luxor, Westmoreland county, died in the Greensburg hospital on Saturday morning from an attack of typhoid fever, aged 28 years. Deceased was born at Pleasant Gap, a daughter of Mr and Mrs. J. R. Tate, both of whom are living at that place. She was united in marriage to Mr Garis 10 years ago and is survived by her husband, parents and the following children: Marie Minerva, Esther, Louise and Charles, all at home. A number of brothers and sisters also survive. The remains were brought to Pleasant Gap on Sunday and funeral services were held in the Lutheran church at that place on Tuesday morning by the Rev. Mr. Wagner, of Boalsburg. Interment at Pleasant Gap.

Mrs. Sarah Jane Fleming Dead.

Mrs. Sarah Jane, relict of Samuel Fleming, died last Friday at 6 P. M. at her home at Pine Grove Mills, aged 80 years, from complications incident to her advanced years. She was a grand old lady, a member of the Presbyterian church from early youth, and enjoyed the friendship of a large number of families. She is survived by three sons: Joseph T. Fleming, Penna. Furnace; Dr. Edward R. Fleming, Boston, Mass., and Samuel, at home. Funeral services were held from the late home on Monday morning, Rev. J. S. Butts, of Belleville, her former pastor, officiating.

Mrs. Catherine S. Stover Dead.

Mrs. Catherine S. Burd, of Rebersburg, died at her home at that place on Monday at 1:30 P. M. from an attack of Bright's disease Deceased was born at Rebersburg, a daughter of Thaddeus and Mary Stover, and was aged 55 years, 5 months and 26 days. Her husband, who died in 1899 was Dr. R. J. Burd. Two sisters survive: Mrs. Carrie M. Detwiler, of Smullton, and Mrs. Lulu Royer, of Rebersburg. Funeral services were held Friday from the late home, Rev. Stephen Traver officiating. Interment at Rebersburg.

Mrs. John Dunkle Dead.

Mrs. John Dunkle died at her home at Spring Mills last Thursday morning from a stroke of paralysis sustained the previous Tuesday. Deceased was aged about 65 years. Her husband is a well known painter in Spring Mills where they have resided for the past 20 years. Previous to that time they lived at Altoona. In addition to the husband, one daughter, Mrs. Carl Rossman, of Altoona, survives. Funeral services were held from the late home on Monday, Interment at Spring Mills.

Mrs. Abner Murray Dead.

Mrs. Abner Murray, of Boalsburg, died at her home at that place on Friday after a long illness from a complication of diseases, aged 80 years and 5 months. Surviving are two daughters, Flora and Gussie, both at home. Her husband and another daughter preceded her to the grave. Funeral services were held at the late home on Sunday afternoon by the Rev. Mr. Kirkpatrick. Interment at Boalsburg.

James Leitzell Dead.

James Leitzell died at his home in Union County on Wednesday of last week from the infirmities of age. Deceased was born in Gregg Twp., Oct. 24, 1855, a son of Samuel and Barbara Leitzell. He is survived by two sons, residing in Chicago, and a number of brothers and sisters, among whom is Mrs. C. C. Bartges, of Spring Mills. Funeral services were held at Mifflinburg on Sunday.

Joseph M. Shearer Dead.

Joseph M. Shearer, a member of the Lock Haven city council, died at his home at that place on Monday morning after a long illness, aged 54 years. He is survived by his wife, a son and two daughters, all at home. Several brothers and sisters also survive, among whom is John C. Shearer, of Snow Shoe. Funeral services were held today. Interment at Lock Haven.

Ice Breaks at Lock Haven

The ice jam in the Susquehanna river at Lock Haven broke on Tuesday and apparently moved out without much difficulty. The ice had not broken at Jersey Shore or Williamsport, however, and it is feared the water may back up to such an extent that Lock Haven may again be flooded. The ice in the river is 18 inches thick in many places and an 18 foot flood was recorded at McElhattan late Tuesday afternoon. Water is slowly covering the fields and roads between Lock Haven and Mill Hall and any further rise will cause greater damage.

New Office In Bush House.

The long familiar entrance to the Bush House, between the Western Union Telegraph office and the Bush House Cigar store, was partitioned off by workmen last week, and the resultant room will be used as a taxi headquarters by Charles Miller, and as the office of the Maytag Washing Machine Co., of which Max Trexler is the local representative. The only entrance to the hotel will now be through the lobby. The new office is just as wide as the old hallway, about 10 feet, and approximately 20 feet deep.

Daniel D. Confer Dead.

Daniel D. Confer, a respected citizen of Orviston, died at his home at that place, from a stroke of paralysis a few days previous, on Saturday evening, Jan. 31 Deceased was aged 66 years and is survived by his wife and 11 children. Funeral services were held at Orviston on Wednesday after which the remains were sent to Blanchard for interment.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
BELLEFONTE, PA.

A properly managed bank is not a mere place to keep money. While its chief purpose is to facilitate exchange and to furnish credit, this is but one of the many businesses its affords.

Often the banker has a wealth of business experience, a knowledge of affairs which, when jointed with a sincere desire to help, proves of great value.

It is a good thing, when one is in doubt, to get a new point of view. The banker may be able to furnish this.

Mothers, Heed This!

Ashland, Ky.—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was recommended to me by a relative after the arrival of my first child, which nearly cost me my life. As it was I was left weak and almost helpless. I began to take the 'Favorite Prescription' for the purpose of recovering my lost strength and to overcome local weakness of the organs affected. I soon grew strong and well. Since then there have come into our home five children, and by my taking the 'Favorite Prescription,' I had an entirely different experience from what I had before. It gives strength and alleviates suffering."—Mrs. George Haney, 523 W. 8th St. Dealers.

Americans Secure Manganese Supply

Needful for Morning Shave and Radio.

Washington.—From Paris it is announced that a United States firm has won the concession for the Tchiaturi manganese mines, biggest in the world, so America can shave in the morning with a steady, untroubled hand.

"There is a very intimate connection between Tchiaturi, deep in an arid ravine under the Caucasus snow peaks, and the cutting edge of the daily razor," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society from its headquarters at Washington.

"Razors are steel. Steel is iron. But steel also is carbon and silicon and sulphur and phosphorus and manganese; for steel is an alloy just as bronze or aluminum are alloys. Gary and Bethlehem and Pittsburgh can get iron from Minnesota and most of the 'seasoning' for their steel in the United States, but they must go abroad for much of their manganese.

Comes From Georgia, Russia.

"Georgia, not the United States commonwealth, but the Soviet republic which is federated with Russia, lies along the southern slopes of the giant Caucasus mountains which cut it off from Russia like the Pyrenees cut off Spain from France. Oil is Georgia's chief mineral resource and manganese is second. Oil at Baku, on the Caspian sea, did much to build the Transcaucaslan railroad from Baku to Batum, on the Black sea, back in the eighties, but manganese found use for it first.

"A few miles west of Tiflis, which is the capital of Georgia, a narrow-gauge branch railroad now winds through the deep cut of the Kvirila river. Its terminal, 25 miles from the main line, is Tchiaturi, which is about 130 miles from the ports of Batum or Poti. Round about Tchiaturi are next to the largest known rich deposits of the rare earth called manganese ore. Although this region is supposed to have 200,000,000 tons awaiting the pick, Brazil is said to have a mountain of it, but this particular Brazilian deposit is so far inland that its exploitation is impracticable at present.

"Before scientists discovered that manganese would facilitate the process of making steel and before they found that a certain per cent made steel wonderfully hard, the Tchiaturi mountain district was inhabited by a few scattered herders. In prosperous times 4,000 miners now work the hills. A herder of sheep knows little about mining so at first Italian miners were imported to work the strata. But the mining is easy and comparatively safe so the Georgians soon caught on and now the great majority of workmen are natives.

Brought Theater and Hot Baths.

"Before the World war much was done to maintain good living conditions for the miners. Homes were built for them together with an institution for hot baths, so dear to the Georgian heart. Electricity came into the mountains for the mines and the villages. Manganese even brought a theater to Tchiaturi.

"When the branch railroad reached the deposits there was great rejoicing because previously all ore had to be taken over perilous mountain paths 25 miles to the main line. Seldom more than a ton could be carried by bullock cart at one time. The old Russian government built the branch line, but freight charges were so high, it is said, that they paid the railroad's cost in two years.

India Passes Georgia.

"Up to the time of the World war, Georgia led the world in production of manganese except for the periods of depression in 1907 and 1908. Then its rival, India, passed it. Closing of the Bosporus in 1914 practically sealed the Georgian mines.

"The United States has always imported manganese heavily from Brazil where the mines are in Minas Geraes, about 300 miles northwest from Rio de Janeiro. During the war America developed her own manganese resources and is using them today to some extent. The principal steel-producing countries have in the past each drawn their chief manganese supplies from a different source; Germany from Georgia, England from India, where it is found in the presidency of Madras and in central India, and the United States from Brazil. Montana, the Blue Ridge mountains of Virginia, Arkansas, Colorado and our own state of Georgia, are the sources within the United States.

"Many radio fans also rely on manganese. Grades of ore coming chiefly from Philipsburg, Mont., are important constituents of the dry cell or dry battery."

143 American Divorces, Paris Record for 1923

Paris.—American divorces granted in the Paris courts during 1923 numbered 143 out of a total of 7,064.

While the percentage of American divorces as regards the total number seems relatively small, it is much more important when one considers that all the divorces obtained by other foreigners of all nationalities during 1923 amounted to only 151.

The present legislation in France provides that in the application for divorces emanating from American citizens the laws of the various states in which they live in the United States shall apply.

WINS BIG CASH PRIZE

Miss Martha Ostenso, shy little twenty-four-year-old school teacher from the Northwest, arrived in New York the other day to receive a cash prize of $13,500 for her novel, "The Passionate Flight," which was adjudged the best in a contest held by Dodd, Mead & Co., Pictorial Review and Famous Players Lasky. Her novel is to be published in magazine and book form and then screened. Miss Ostenso was born in Norway, coming to this country at the age of two.

More Building Now Is Done in Winter

Better Stabilizing of Industry Is Result.

New York.—Constructors say midwinter building has become a conquered peak. First scaled successfully after years of effort in the winter of 1923, they report that during the present winter they will go 1923 enough better to make the conquest permanent.

The business world, watching the climbers from below, already sees the effect in an early easing of seasonal unemployment in both the building trades and the field of building supply, in relieving of the housing shortage and in a better stabilizing of the building industry as a whole by distributing the old back-breaking seasonal loads over a full 12-month period.

Dwight L. Hoopingarner, executive of the American Construction council, in describing some of the new aspects of winter construction, says:

"This greater stabilization has been secured by relatively simple methods.

Lesson From Experience.

"Experience has shown that work on large buildings, whether of steel, masonry or concrete construction, can be conducted with safety in temperatures down to 20 or 25 degrees above zero. After that salamanders to provide heat, tarpaulins to keep it and hanging scaffolds to hold men and materials where they are needed have solved the problem of keeping out the cold and frost and permitting winter operations to go ahead in many cases at more even temperatures and greater economy. Records of contractors over periods of years have shown an average of about fourteen days, with scarcely over thirty-one days' maximum in any one year in which the weather necessitated that the precautions of winter building be taken."

Mr. Hoopingarner advises the building investing public to recognize the necessity of exercising special care in securing responsible and thoroughly skilled architects, engineers and contractors in the performance of winter work.

Four per cent more contracts were let for new building in the first 11 months of 1924, ended November 30, than in the full 12 months of 1923 in the 36 states covered by the Dodge reports, says Mr. Hoopingarner. The total figure for the 11 months was $4,100,000,000. Compared with the same 11 months of 1923 the increase was 13 per cent. With prices in the main slightly lower than the year before, he says the comparisons are conservative.

Mr. Hoopingarner finds winter activity producing a relative increase in prices, although prices for the year as a whole show a slight decrease. Previous to last year the winter demand for materials was relatively small. "It is well to note the fact," he observes "that with a greater volume of winter construction there will be a tendency toward higher relative prices for materials, and possibly for labor, than have been considered normal for the winter season. Such a condition, however, will not vitiate the basic advantages of winter work."

SOLVE SECRET OF "GENTLEMAN BUM"

Brothers Trace History of Cultured Beach Comber.

Bay Shore, N. Y.—Photographs of the "gentleman beach comber" who committed suicide in his hut on Fire island, were identified by relatives as those of Andrew Sherman McMillen, sixty, a contractor and former lawyer, who disappeared from Bridgeville, Pa., seven years ago.

Identity was established by McMillen's brothers, Charles E. and George B. McMillen of Bridgeville, and George H. Baird, Pittsburgh banker.

McMillen's brothers examined letters, trinkets and friends of "old Mac," as the man was known, until they found a photograph of him taken only a month ago. It was the picture of a bent and broken old man, with a flowing beard and white hair.

McMillen once was an attorney in Bridgeville. Then he became a contractor and constructed many bridges in suburbs of Pittsburgh. He was a Mason and an Elk.

Seven years ago he was divorced and shortly thereafter disappeared.

About five years ago "Old Mac" moved into a hut on Fire Island. It was learned, to become a beach comber. There he gathered seaweed in season and acquired scores of friends among wealthy summer residents.

Bundles of newly received holiday greetings were found in the McMillen hut. Inquiry disclosed that "Old Mac" had journeyed to Brooklyn and New York to return many of the greetings. But none of those who knew him best had been able to glean an item of his past history.

They knew him as a cultured old gentleman in a beach comber's garb, who liked to chat on intellectual subjects and to play with children, who conversed in several languages and who played the violin well.

State police knew and liked him and so did the young fellows in the United States naval radio station. He used to visit and chat with them and sometimes have them apply emergency kit medicines to alleviate the pain of internal diseases for which he several times had been operated upon and which are believed to have driven him to suicide.

One of the naval radio operators a month ago took the snapshot which enabled McMillen's brothers to identify him.

Bank books indicated that the beach comber once had $3,000 on deposit in a local bank. But when he died the account held only $3, while his effects yielded only six cents.

'Evidence in Mitigation' Reduces Penalty for Lively Episode at Party.

Chicago.—"Evidence in mitigation" reduced the penalty meted out to Mrs. Francis Butterfield by Judge John A. Bugee of the Sheffield avenue police court for shooting up a party where her husband was a guest, to a mere $25 fine and a day in the house of correction.

"No, your honor," testified her husband, in contradiction of his previous statement that Mrs. Butterfield had taken exception to the number of times he had fox-trotted with Caroline Rehmberg.

"No, your honor, it wasn't anything like that. Caroline's a dancing teacher and my wife wouldn't take a shot at me just for picking up a few new steps. You see, your honor, it was like this. There was a party—"

The party, according to the police who broke it up, occurred so late Saturday as to be early Sunday, in the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mulder, on the floor below the Butterfield menage.

Shot Through the Door.

"Mrs. Butterfield didn't shoot up the place very badly," Mrs. Mulder testified, with the tact of the perfect hostess. "All she did to me was to chase me into the kitchen and beat me up."

Punched His Nose.

"And all she did to me," Mrs. Butterfield's host concurred, "was to punch my nose."

"She only threw a bridge lamp at me," said Frank Keller, one of the guests.

"She hit me with the shade," added Clarence Gariard, another guest.

It was at this point, testimony revealed, that Mrs. Butterfield, feeling the inadequacy of her weapons, went home for her automatic.

She returned to the portal of the Mulder apartment, only to have it inhospitably slammed in her face by Miss Rehmberg. It was necessary, Mrs. Butterfield explained to the court, to shoot through the door to let those within know that she wished to enter. Police, who arrived presently, claim that Mrs. Butterfield was extravagant in firing a total of 13 shots.

Total casualties from the fray being shown to be only Mrs. Butterfield's brooch and housekey, Mr. Butterfield's diamond ring (slightly injured) and the Mulder bridge lamp (a complete wreck), the court was lenient. All but Mrs. Butterfield were discharged.

Convict Survives With Three Stitches in Heart

Moundsville, W. Va.—A life convict at the West Virginia penitentiary is alive today, due to a surgical operation performed by prison physicians who used three stitches to close a gash in his heart.

The convict, Roscoe Caldwell, a negro, was stabbed in the left chest with a pair of scissors by another convict and the blade penetrated the lung and slashed the heart. The stabbing occurred six months ago and the other day Caldwell was discharged from the hospital and returned to prison.

Wits Save Life

Andover, Mass.—Ellsworth G. Rood cheated death by his presence of mind when his clothing became caught in whirling shafting in the mill where he is employed.

Rood, instead of struggling to disengage himself and risking certain death by being flung against the ceiling, wrapped his arms around the shaft, flattening himself against it. He was dropped to the floor only slightly injured when his clothing, with the exception of the neckband of his shirt and his shoes, had been torn from him.

Husky Old Timer

Augusta, Maine.—J. D. Cameron is one hundred years old and can shoulder a barrel of potatoes. He does it every few days just to help out in his son's grocery store and to keep young. Cameron can lift a man and hold him aloft. He attributes his strength and longevity to a life in the woods for 40 years.

Anyway, the cross-word puzzle sets some people to thinking.

The test of a speeder seems to be what kind of excuse he has.

Perhaps an accountant need not be an accountant if he is a good fellow.

Nobody cares how rapidly Secretary Mellon's prosperity prediction comes true.

It's fair enough. The Reds have too much cheek, and the cheeks have too much red.

We hear very little of King Tut these days. Ah, how quickly are we forgotten!

American now has half of the world's gold and about 86 per cent of its brass.

A pessimist is a man who has been listening to a mechanic explain what his car needs.

An income tax thought will intrude at the very time a man thinks he's leading a contented life.

Has Many Meanings

The phrase "in limbo" may be taken to mean an indefinite border region in the intermediate state, nearer hell or heaven according to the class of souls there detained; a place of confinement; a prison; a place, real or imaginary, to which things worthless or foolish may be relegated.

Ancients thought there were demons and hobgoblins in the air. There were; they were germs.

Some trains of thought are "limited."

Permanent roads are a good investment —not an expense

Why America Must Have More Paved Highways

Almost every section of the United States is confronted by a traffic problem.

Month by month this problem is becoming more and more serious.

Hundreds of cars pass a given point every hour on many of our state and county roads. Downtown city streets are jammed with traffic.

Think, too, how narrow many of our roads are, and how comparatively few paved highways there are in proportion to the steadily increasing number of cars.

If the motor vehicle is to continue giving the economic service of which it is capable, we must have more Concrete highways and widen those near large centers of population.

Every citizen should discuss highway needs of his community with his local authorities.

Your highway officials will do their part if given your support.

Why postpone meeting this pressing need?

An early start means early relief.

LEGION PROUD OF THIS "GO-GETTER"

One incident in the military life of Peyton H. Hoge, Jr., one of the five national vice commanders of the American Legion, is significant. At one time early in 1918 he was ordered to be in four places at the same time.

This might be taken as merely another instance of the involved winding up of official red tape. It was not just a happen-so, either. It was a natural consequence. It was also a prophecy.

The men who issued those orders knew that if any man could be in four places at one time it was Peyton H. Hoge, Jr., and they also knew that if any man would do anything he was ordered to do if it were humanly possible, it was this same jolly Kentuckian with the drawl and the sparkling eye. That, at least, is the explanation which appears most plausible to those who have been associated with him in the Peyton H. Hoge, Jr.

American Legion and who have known his restless energy and his go-getting enthusiasm.

Hoge was a charter member of Jefferson post No. 15 of Louisville, Ky. He was elected chairman of the post investigation committee in 1920. He decided that the best antidote for Reds was a gigantic patriotic celebration and a public rededication of the principles of America. A three-day demonstration was participated in by all citizens. More than 25,000 persons attended the rededication meeting on a Sunday night in November, 1920.

As a result of this work Mr. Hoge was appointed a member of the National American commission by Commander Franklin D'Olier, and is still a member. He compiled and distributed for Jefferson post the facts which caused German-American societies to disown the leadership and political power claimed by George Sylvester Viereck, editor of the Fatherland. He was chosen as a member of the committee to combat propaganda for extreme pacifism in colleges and churches.

The new national vice commander was born in Wilmington, N. C., January 26, 1889. At the age of ten years he moved with his parents to Louisville. He specialized in chemistry at Centre college. Since that time he has been engaged in selling life insurance. He was married to Blanche Weissinger Smith and they have two children.

Mr. Hoge was commissioned a captain of infantry on Auguest 15, 1917. He landed in France in the fall of 1918. He was discharged from the service at Camp Jackson on April 5, 1919.

Hospital for Care of Tuberculous Veterans

It is not generally known that the American Legion is conducting one of the best hospitals for the care of tuberculous veterans in the country today. This institution is at Camp Custer, Battle Creek, Mich., and is operated by service men and women for service men and women. It is known as the Roosevelt American Legion hospital and the wonderful success it has attained is due in the main to the cooperation of the Legion posts and auxiliary units of Michigan. The valuation of the property holdings is placed at $1,250,000. The hospital admitted 260 patients for treatment during the fiscal year.

Eternal Punishment

A rich plumber who passed away and went where all plumbers go reported to the devil and was told to go ahead and install the new hot water system.

"All right," answered the plumber. "Give me a helper and I'll start in."

"Oh, you'll have to do the work yourself," chuckled Satan. "You don't have a helper. That's the h—l of it."

THE ENDOWMENT FUND

"THE endowment fund of $5,000,000 which the American Legion is seeking in order to insure the proper care of disabled veterans of the war and orphaned children of veterans is necessary," declared National Commander James A. Drain, of the Legion, in an interview at national headquarters recently. "Experience has shown that. That is why the Legion has started its nationwide campaign for this fund.

"The fund will provide a yearly income," he continued, "estimated at $225,000. This fund will leave nothing to chance. Nothing must ever be left to chance when it comes to a question of the care of the disabled and the orphan.

"The Legion, you know, has used freely its own financial resources in this work. It has from time to time had gifts from groups and individuals. At times it has borrowed money. At other times it has been impossible to see the way clear for a month ahead. The work has gone forward, of course, but its financing can fairly be described only as 'hand to mouth.' Very clearly, such a policy is neither adequate, just nor economical. We cannot go on in that way. This fund will enable us to do the work with assurance that we shall have the means to perform what the Legion desires and seeks to do for these unfortunates."

VETERANS' BUREAU REVIEWING CASES

All cases of disabled World war veterans which were disallowed under terms of laws enacted prior to the Reed-Johnson bill of 1924 are being reviewed by the United States veterans' bureau, according to word received from Washington. This general review involves hundreds of thousands of cases. The review is being made in response to a suggestion presented by the national rehabilitation committee of the American Legion.

General Frank T. Hines, director of the bureau, has set up a special section of the bureau to review these cases. Special attention will be given to see if they are entitled to further consideration and action under the Reed-Johnson bill.

The review has already covered more than 60,000 such cases. Favorable action has been taken or is in contemplation in some 6,000 cases, ten per cent of the number reviewed. In 1,855 cases approval of awards for payment has already been granted.

Among the cases which had previously been disallowed are numerous death cases. Others are disability cases disallowed prior to the decentralization of the veterans' bureau in 1921. No communication or other information had been received concerning them since that time and they had been held inactive at the central office of the bureau at Washington.

When it is found in reviewing these cases that the claimant is entitled to further benefits, letters are at once sent to all addresses of record in an effort to learn the present whereabouts of the claimant. Upon receipt of information concerning him, the case is then sent for examination of the claimant and for final action to the veterans' bureau office in the claimant's own district.

Benefits have already been granted, in the cases on which favorable action has been taken upon review, under practically every new feature of the Reed-Johnson bill. Results so far achieved indicate that this general review will be highly successful and will remedy many injustices which had previously been worked on disabled veterans. It is pointed out that if not more than ten per cent of the cases are found to be entitled to favorable action under the Veterans' act of 1924 (the Reed-Johnson bill), much will have been accomplished in the interest of the disabled.

Oklahoma Veterans to Be in Home Hospitals

Oklahoma disabled veterans hereafter will be hospitalized in Oklahoma hospitals, according to James Hatcher, department commander of the American Legion. Mr. Hatcher returned recently from Washington where, with Ray Weems of the soldiers' relief commission, he had been in conference with Director Frank T. Hines of the veterans' bureau, on the mooted question, "Where shall a vetearn be hospitalized?"

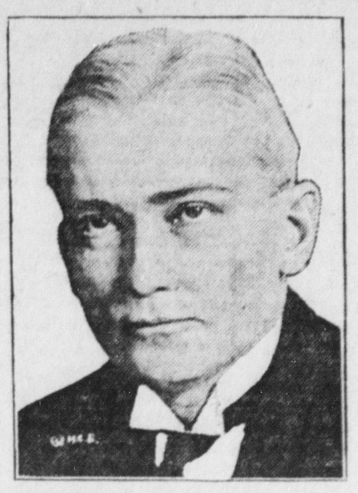
The decision will set the precedent, say Legion officials, of hospitalizing veterans in or near their home state, and will strengthen the policy of making changes in their hospitalization.

Clinic to Aid Disabled

Complete medical examination by a clinic of the best doctors of Nebraska will be provided by the American Legion for all disabled former service men of Nebraska and the ten western counties of Iowa, who make claim to the veterans' bureau for compensation. After obtaining the medical evidence, the Legion will furnish a liaison man to plead the veteran's cause before the rating board. Municipal Judge Frank Dineen will represent the men before the rating board, working under the welfare committee of Omaha post, American Legion.

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

Explorer, Professor, Aviator, Senator



It's a fair guess that Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut is the only explorer in congress. Also he has another distinction: He was sworn in as governor of his state in January and resigned the next day to take his seat in the senate, having been appointed to the place left vacant by the death of Senator F. B. Brandegee.

Senator Bingham was born in Honolulu in 1875 and has A. B., A. M. and Ph. D. degrees from Yale. Up to date he has been an educator when he wasn't exploring and an explorer when he wasn't in his college class rooms. He began to teach in 1905, becoming a preceptor in history and politics at Princeton. Since 1915 he has been professor of Latin American history at Yale.

Between times he has explored pretty much all of the wild places in northern South America and has directed various scientific expeditions sent out by Yale and the National Geographic society. He has dabbled in national politics since 1916. The entrance of America into the World war found him a captain in the National Guard of Connecticut. He learned to fly and was placed in charge of all the United States schools of military aeronautics. He next became chief of the air personnel, A. E. F. He was commanding officer of the allied aviation instruction center at Issoudon, August to December, 1918. So, while there be other explorers in congress, Senator Bingham is undoubtedly the only combination explorer, aviator and college professor.

R. S. Baker to Be Wilson's Biographer

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson has announced that the long-awaited authorized biography and compilation of papers of the war president will be done by Ray Stannard Baker of Amherst, Mass. Mrs. Wilson is satisfied that Mr. Wilson would have chosen Mr. Baker, as she found an unsent letter, practically promising him access to all the papers, written only ten days before Mr. Wilson's death. There are stated to be 30,000 letters in the private correspondence and almost innumerable documents and memoranda. Mrs. Wilson promises Mr. Baker a free hand and appeals to the public for any matter that may prove useful. The work will be begun at once, but it is evident that it will require several years.

Mr. Baker was born in 1870 in Michigan and is a University of Michigan man. He put in five years of newspaper work in Chicago, 1892-7 and thereafter was a magazine editor. In 1918 he was a special commissioner of the State department in Great Britain, France and Italy. He was in charge in 1919 of the press bureau of the American Commission to Negotiate Peace at Paris. He is the author of several works, including "What Wilson Did at Paris" (1919).

It will doubtless surprise many to learn that as "David Grayson" Mr. Baker won an enviable reputation as a writer in an entirely different line. His "Adventures in Contentment" (1907), "The Friendly Road" (1913) and other works in a similar vein are delightful.

Mrs. William M. Butler of Massachusetts

Here is a brand new portrait of Mrs. William M. Butler, wife of the senator from Massachusetts. Senator Butler succeeded to the seat so long occupied by the late Henry Cabot Lodge—from 1893 to his death. The first wife of Senator Butler was Minnie F. Norton of Edgartown, Mass. The marriage took place in 1886 and Mrs. Butler died in 1905. The present Mrs. Butler was Mary Lothrop Webster of Boston and the marriage took place January 1, 1907. The Butler home in Boston is at 231 Commonwealth avenue.

The Coolidges and Butlers are close friends, the senator having been an influential backer of the President for a number of years. Mr. Butler was born in New Bedford in 1861 and got his education at Boston university. He practiced law at New Bedford and went to Boston in 1895. Later he turned his attention to public utilities and cotton mills. He served in the Massachusetts house in 1890 and 1891. Then he went to the state senate, 1892-5, serving as president the last two years. He was made a member of the Republican national committee and was manager of the Coolidge campaign of 1924.

Widow Gives Croker Memorial Museum

Mrs. Bula Croker, widow of the noted Tammany leader, has announced the gift of a $500,000 memorial museum to the city of New York. The museum will include a mausoleum within which the body of Richard Croker will be placed. The museum will contain many of the books, paintings and tapestries collected by Croker. These will be removed from the Croker home in Ireland, where Croker lived from 1907 to 1919. He died April 29, 1922.

Mrs. Croker was Bula Benton Edmonston, a Cherokee Indian "princess" of Oklahoma. After Croker's death his sons by his first marriage tried to break his will, whereupon there was much litigation in the American courts.

Croker was born in Ireland in 1841 and was brought here as a child. He learned the machinist's trade. He entered politics in 1865, serving New York city as alderman, coroner, fire commissioner and city chamberlain. He was opposed to the Tweed ring and was recognized head of Tammany Hall for 17 years. Croker got his education in the public schools of New York, but he was a shrewd politician and a man of dominating personality, as is shown by his long leadership of Tammany Hall.

After Croker's retirement and his establishment of a home in Ireland, he achieved international fame by winning the English derby of 1907 with Orby, a horse of his own breeding.

After Years of Study The Making of Father John's Medicine Is on a Scientific Basis

Years of study by competent experts added to exhaustive scientific research have so developed the process of compounding Father John's Medicine that it is today recognized as the finest preparation of cod liver oil scientifically blended with other ingredients obtainable.

While the formula remains unchanged, the process of preparation has been so developed at this great laboratory, which is devoted exclusively to the making of Father John's Medicine, that it has been found possible to maintain this high standard.

Father John's Medicine has been tested through 69 years and has proved its merit by its continued and ever-increasing success in the treatment of colds, coughs and body building.

Memorial to Peace

The Portal of Peace is a massive concrete structure in the form of a gateway. It is located at Blaine, Wash., and was dedicated September 5, 1921, in honor of the peace between the United States and Canada, which had lasted for more than 100 years without a break. The memorial, which cost $40,000, stands 100 yards from the international boundary where the forty-ninth parallel meets Boundary bay.

WARNS POLICEMEN

Fining Motorists Who do Not Have 1925 Drivers' Cards.

This statement was issued by the Highway Department Friday:

"It has come to the attention of the Department of Highways that police officers in some sections of Pennsylvania have been arresting and fining motorists who do not have 1925 drivers' cards. Possessors of 1924 drivers' cards are perfectly within the law because the life of these cards does not expire until March 1, 1925.

"Applications for 1925 licenses, however, are not being made in such large numbers that the 1,600,000 drivers of Pennsylvania will all have their cards by March 1. The possessors of drivers' cards are dilatory in filing their applications. The department mailed an application card to every driver in the State. If the driver did not get this card he had either changed his residence, misinformed the department originally, or had written his address illegibly. Drivers who do not get cards should notify the Highway Department, giving their name, address and the number of their 1924 card.

"It is only necessary to answer two simple questions, sign these cards and attach remittance for $1. No notarial acknowledgment is necessary."

Commencement Honors at State.

The twelfth annual mid-year commencement on Tuesday evening, Feb. 10, at the Penns. State College witnessed the granting of 48 bachelor degrees, 9 advanced degrees and 5 certificates to young men who had completed the work in the 2-year agricultural course. Dr. John M. Thomas, president of the college, gave the commencement address. Three of the 6 girls to be graduated won first scholastic honors, awarded to 15% ranking highest in general scholarship. The first honor winners were: Miss Reba Bartleson, State College; Miss Esther Byerly, Philadelphia; Miss Verna May Reed, Danville; Bernard C. Duncan, Windber; Floyd R. Ealy, Sharpsville, and William F. Snyder, Lehighton. Second honors went to James H. Brewer, Muncy; Miss Mary C. McGovern, Conshohocken; Howard S. Davis, Outcrop; Leon B. Epler, Northumberland; Willis E. Ramsey, New Brighton, and Kenneth R. Strickler, Narberth. The advanced degrees awarded by the Graduate School went to faculty members, graduates of Penn States and other colleges. About 75 new students were admitted to classes in the college at the beginning of the second semester on last Monday. About 15 of these were admitted with advanced standing from other colleges and the balance started as freshmen. These new students allow the college to maintain capacity service in resident instruction with a student body of over 3,500.

Meeting of Medical Society.

A meeting of the Centre County Medical Society was held in the Court House on Wednesday morning. The following were elected officers for the coming year: President, LeRoy Locke; 1st Vice President, Peter H. Dale, State College; 2nd vice president, E. M. Miller, Milheim; Secy. and Treas., O. W. McEntyre, Howard; censors, Dr. Barlett, Pleasant Gap; Dr. Melvin Locke, Bellefonte, and Dr. Ritenour, State College; recorder, Dr. J. L. Seibert, Bellefonte. A special roster committee was appointed to arouse interest of the doctors over the county in the society. The members of the committee are Drs. Ritenour, Foster and Dale, all of State College. Medical men have apparently lost interest in this estimable society and a determined effort will be put forth to make it so interesting and profitable that doctors in the county will not be able to afford missing its meetings. The regular meeting day has been changed from the second Wednesday of the month to the second Tuesday at 8:30 P. M. in the Bellefonte High School auditorium. A member of the State society will be secured to read a paper at the next meeting.

State Chest Clinic.

The State Chest Clinic in the Red Cross Room, Petrikin Hall is open Tuesdays, from 2 to 4 P. M., for the examination of children who are undernourished or who have lowered resistance to respiratory infection, also adults and children who have been in contact with tuberculosis individuals and those who are suspected of having tuberculosis. Patients sent to clinic by physicians for examination or admission to State Sanatoria will be referred back for treatment and further observation. Well Baby Clinic, Wednesday, 2 to 4. Red Cross Room.

Minister's Home Bombed.

The home of Rev. Elmer I. Williams, formerly of Port Matilda, but now known as the fighting parson of Chicago, was recently dynamited for the second time in less than a year. Rev. Williams has been conducting a vigorous campaign for law enforcement and has incurred the bitter enmity of the underworld. None of the members of the family were injured but the Williams home was somewhat damaged.

B. H. S. BASKET BALL

Boys Defeat Philipsburg—Girls Win Easily from Renovo.

The reserve strength of the B. H. S. basket ball squad was in evidence Friday evening when a five that included three second string men won from Philipsburg, 27—23.

The new combination was slow in getting started and did not show its real power until the second half. Philipsburg had a margin of 6 points at one time in the first half and led at its close by 10 to 12. They held this lead until the middle of the second half when Bellefonte cut loose with a passing and shooting game that was not to be denied.

The game was fast during every minute but both sides showed rare sportsmanship and the fouls called were not due to any deliberate fouling. B. H. S. realized that it had its hands full and that only by giving its best could it win.

Field goals: Best, 5; Harvey, 3; Bower, 3; Furey, 1; Hellowell, 1; Ratowsky, 2; Peters, 2; Bratton, 2; Gett, 1.

Foul goals: Furey, 2; Best, 1; Clark, 1; Harvey, 1; Ratowsky, 2; Peters, 3; Bratton, 1; Champ, 1.

Referee: Stuart, of State College.

B. H. S. was scheduled to meet Huntingdon High at the local armory this Friday evening but the Academy dance has necessitated a change in the date. The game will probably be played on Saturday evening at the armory. Another great battle is assured.

Last Saturday evening at the Y. M. C. A. the B. H. S. girls took the sting out of the set back handed them by Renovo a week previously. The first five minutes were fast and well fought but then the Renovo guards seemed to grow tired of trying to stop the Bellefonte forwards. The half ended with our girls at the long end of a 21—3 score. The visitors made a spurt during the second which netted them 16 points while we were gathering 10. The game ended with the count 31 to 19.

This Saturday evening the girls go to Lock Haven to play the Central State Normal School.

A Wonderful Bridge.

"The Republican" acknowledges receipt from the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. of a remarkably interesting calendar. It is handsomely illustrated with a reproduction from a wonderful painting of the famous Rockville bridge, nearby Harrisburg. The picture shows a modern passenger of the Pennsylvania system crossing the bridge. The Rockville bridge is the longest stone arch bridge in the world. In keeping with the Pennsylvania Railroad policy of security and comfort, bridges of that railroad are constructed far stronger and heavier than is required or actually necessary. The Rockville bridge is four fifths of a mile in length and 52 feet wide, carrying four tracks. In the construction of its forty-eight symmetrical arches, each with a rise of twenty feet and a seventy-foot span, four hundred and forty million pounds of tested cut stone were used. From the bridge are wide and beautiful vistas of the river, north and south, with the picturesque rocks showing through the swift water and little islands dotting the surface. One sees in the blue distance the gap in the foothills of the Alleghenies, where the river forces its path, the natural trail that our fathers followed in colonizing the rich lands of the Middle West and Southwest—opening to the world a wealth of minerals and agricultural products.

Will Hold Indoor Circus.

Instead of a business show which was contemplated by the Bellefonte Business men, it has been decided to hold an indoor society circus and minstrel show, in which the Business Men's Association and Kiwanis Club will co-operate. The date of the show has not been determined, but is scheduled for the latter part of March. Committees have been appointed by both organizations to take charge of the work and there is no doubt that two such live-wire organizations as these behind the project, it will be put over with a bang.

State Wrestlers Defeat Penn.

Penn State wrestlers made a clean sweep of the dual meet with the University of Pennsylvania matmen last Saturday, at State College, taking 4 falls and 3 decisions to win, by a score of 29 to 0. In spite of the one-sided score, the Philadelphia visitors put up a stiff fight, 3 of the bouts being carried to extra periods before the Penn State grapplers were victorious.

Save Money Next Wednesday--Here's How:

Here's some news that will be of exceptional interest to every thrifty inhabitant of Bellefonte. The mere announcement that Altoona Booster Stores will stage their regular quarterly Dollar Day makes shrewd house-wives and husbands plan days ahead to be in Altoona for these greatest of all merchandising events.

Next Wednesday, February 18—in Altoona Booster Stores

Every Booster Dollar Day grows and grows, and gets bigger and bigger in the number of people who take advantage of them and of the real bargains that are to be had at this popular price—ONE DOLLAR.

And the Dollar Price is not alone. Jewelers, Milliners, Furniture Dealers Shoe Stores, and Men's Outfitters, while featuring thousands of Dollar items, also make special prices on higher priced goods that will make your visit really worth while.

Extra salespeople have been secured for your better service, so come early in the morning before the real values have been exhausted.

Community Rest Room on Fifteenth Street, in Christ Reformed Church, was created for your comfort. Nothing is for sale, just a place to relax after a tiresome journey through the stores.

Tell your neighbors you expect to go and have them come with you. Good places to eat and the movies have the best first-run films in Central Pennsylvania—See the Strand.

Next Wednesday But, be sure you buy in Booster Stores.
